IF STOCK MARKET prices interest you, this is real news. The New York Central railroad, one of the best and most ably managed in the United States, passed its dividend yesterday for the first time in 60 years. The stock sold in 1929 above $250. It sold yesterday for $25. "He hath put down the mighty" with a vengeance.

The United States must do something ABOUT and FOR its railroads.

They have made mistakes. So has everybody else, from the top down.

For the nation to be indifferent to the troubles of railroads is as foolish as for an individual to be indifferent to hardening of his arteries. Railroads are the arteries and veins of the physical, industrial and commercial national body.

It is absolutely essential to the public welfare that railroads have whatever financial assistance they need, also important that they be managed by the railroad men, that understand railroads, and those men not held in bondage by official theorists.

Those for whom the words "income tax" have hitherto meant nothing, except the pleasant loading of national expense on to the bigger pocketbooks, will take an interest in those words hereafter if Mr. Mellon's proposals go through.

He would add one million seven hundred thousand to the number of income taxpayers, and income taxpayers now "in the low brackets" will find their tax raised. The fact that it is necessary for those hitherto exempt to carry their share of the burden will not seem a good reason.

China reports two more air bombings by Japanese fighting planes. One village was struck by 21 bombs, another village, Tawa, was riddled by seven bombs, and raked by machine gun fire from the planes.

Chinese residents of Chinchow are frightened by Japanese planes flying only 30 feet above their roofs.

The Chinese are learning about modern war, and our government ought to be learning about it also.

There are three things important in war now, courage, airplanes and submarines.

Great is the power of the armed. Twelve Chinese bandits, waving a red flag, held up the Peining-Mukden Express. Six hundred passengers, Chinese and foreign, including some Americans, stood humbly submissive while the bandits took their money, jewelry and overcoats.

There is a lesson in preparedness there. If the 600 passengers had been armed, the 12 bandits would have held up some other train.

The Manchester Guardian, of late years the most powerful of England's old-fashioned newspapers, ardent, unceasing supporter of the League of Nations, has changed its mind suddenly. It now discovers that the League is a failure, and the Chinese-Japanese trouble proves it.

It needs no ghost to come from the grave, or Manchester Guardian to tell us that.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, tells a luncheon to appoint "Minute Men" to work for the Democratic party, that he foresees a long Democratic era in the United States.

Mr. Raskob is very able; he proved it long before he went into politics, and he knows that what the Democratic party needs is not "Minute Men" but FOUR-YEAR MEN, able to look ahead, work hard and keep at it.

Democrats won't have any long tenure of national office unless they can stop fighting inside the party and come to the starting line NOT with their fingers entwined in each other's hair.

Germany has made up her mind to do things instead of merely talking. While she could borrow hundreds and thousands of millions from simple-minded bankers here and in England, everything was simple. She borrowed three billions, paid France two and one-half billions, spent the five hundred millions on many things, including athletic fields and housing projects.

Now, easy money days are gone, Germany cuts wages, official salaries, appoints a commission to decide at what prices life's necessities shall be sold. Interest rate on bonds, mortgages, loans, and even doctors' fees, are reduced by law. And no real estate sale can be forced by foreclosure or otherwise, unless the owner gets at least 70 per cent of the property's value. That will interest many Americans that find themselves "foreclosed" out of house and home.

MISSING CO-ED IS SAFE IN MONTREAL

Esther Pitts, Missing Since Sunday From Vermont, Phones She Was Kidnaped

Burlington, Vt., Dec. 10—Esther Pitts, Vermont University co-ed missing since Sunday, telephoned to her mother from Montreal today and sobbingly related an incoherent story of having been kidnaped, held captive and finally released.

The call was received by the mother, Mrs. E. R. Pitts, in her Colchester home.

Mrs. Pitts immediately telephoned a friend in Montreal to meet the girl at the Windsor station, from which the call was made, and care for her until the family arrives.

The friend, relative of a Colchester resident, went to the station, met the girl, and took her to his Montreal home, telephoning that she was safe.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitts and James [illegible] Wood, Boston detective engaged for the search by the college, left immediately for Montreal.

SEIZED IN BURLINGTON.

Mrs. Pitts said her daughter was hysterical and talked incoherently but gave the impression that she had been seized in Burlington Sunday night, shortly after she left the home of Rev. H. O. Tatum, where she boarded, and carried to Montreal in an automobile.

An hour before Miss Pitts' whereabouts was determined, Stanley Concord of Colchester ave., near the girls' dormitories of the college, reported to police that Sunday afternoon he had seen a closed car bearing Quebec number plates "cruising" in an attempt to pick up students.

Miss Pitts, 20, blonde and brilliant sophomore in the teachers college of the state university, vanished shortly after 4 p. m. Sunday afternoon.

EXHAUSTIVE SEARCH

No definite clue regarding her whereabouts was received until she telephoned today.

Police and private detectives were aided in the search for her by her college chums, led by Lester V. Peck, her most intimate male friend.

She was recently described as "the ideal college girl," who neither smoked, drank nor petted in an article written for a Colchester Christian Endeavor magazine by Rev. A. Ritchie Lowe, a Colchester minister.

Starr 'Leap to Death' Is Revealed

EXCLUSIVE!

Copyright, 1931, by the Boston Evening American

New York, Dec. 10—With the finding of an eye-witness to the death of Starr Faithful, the madcap beauty of Greenwich Village, the mystery which rocked Boston has been solved to the satisfaction of the Nassau County authorities, the Boston Evening American learned exclusively today.

This eye-witness told the Nassau county investigators that [illegible] the [illegible] girl [illegible] ocean liner outward bound, early on the morning of June 6.

The name of the vessel is being withheld on request of the authorities until they make a formal announcement of their solution.

But it may be said that the amazing part of the solution is that this is a vessel which [illegible] before figured in the investigation, although Starr's reckless conduct aboard other ships played an important part in the inquiry that followed her mysterious death.

The scantily clad body of the former Boston society girl was found on the sand at Long Beach, L. I., on June 8, three days after

HOOVER 'AID EUROPE' PLEA ASSAILED

President's Request for Debt Moratorium Condemned by Democrats

Washington, Dec. 10—President Hoover asked Congress today to open the way for further war debts revision, saying it was required in the "economic emergency."

This view was embodied in a message submitting his moratorium proposal for ratification before next Tuesday, when the European payments again fall due.

Congressional leaders at once said the consideration they want to give the moratorium [illegible] quick action impossible.

There was no prospect of the proposal being rejected, however, despite the Senate fight against it by Johnson of California.

JOHNSON PLAN ADOPTED

Johnson's resolution for inquiry into the amounts of foreign securities in this country was adopted without debate, even while a messenger stood in the aisle bearing the President's recommendation.

In the House immediately after the message was read a heated attack upon the President's proposals was launched by the Democrats with several notes of approval from the Republican side.

A formal joint resolution for ratification was introduced by Sen. Smoot (R.) of Utah. It was referred to the Senate finance committee of which he is chairman.

The resolution provides for postponing debt payments in the current fiscal year and repayment over a period of ten years from Austria, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania and Yugo-Slavia.

FRANCE DEMANDS CUT

Meanwhile, the State Department disclosed receipt of formal notification from the French government of its position that reparations revision must be accompanied by a comparative scaling down of war debts.

When the House reading clerk reached Mr. Hoover's statement:

"I do not approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debts to us," there was applause from the Republican side.

At the White House and State Department officials awaited fuller information on the proposal by

"Legs" Diamond on Trial Once More

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—Jack "Legs" Diamond, who has been busy with the law since the State of New York began to look into his gang activities, went on trial today on a kidnaping charge which carries a sentence of 10 to 30 years if he is convicted.

The charge against Diamond is the outgrowth of the state's investigation of racketeering in the Catskills and is based on an attack on Grover Parks, a truck driver, and his assistant, James Duncan.

Walsh Asks $5000 to Keep Up Smith Fight

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—An appropriation of $5000 to carry the Senate's battle with President Hoover over Chairman Smith of the power commission to higher courts was sought today by Sen. Walsh of Montana. Justice Gordon of the District of Columbia Supreme Court recently held that the Senate had no right to reconsider Smith's nomination after once having approved it.

John F. Kuster, 47, wealthy treasurer of the Andrews Paper Co., India sq., was found dead late today, a victim of carbon monoxide gas in the garage of his home, 5 Chestnut st., Salem.

Harvey Barnes and George Toft, gas company employes, discovered him, half-reclining on the running board of his automobile. They were called to trace a supposed gas leak.

The ignition of the machine was on, but the motor had stopped from lack of gasoline. The hood was raised and tools were strewn on the floor. Death was pronounced accidental.

SINO-JAPANESE PEACE VOTED

Paris, Dec. 10 (INS)—A resolution to end the Sino-Japanese conflict in Manchuria was adopted by unanimous vote of the League of Nations Council today.

It calls for withdrawal of Japanese troops within the railway zone as speedily as possible and provides for a neutral commission to study the entire situation and report back to the Council.

Japan accepted with the reservation that the resolution should not interfere with her pursuing bandits or protecting her citizens in Manchuria.

Dr. Alfred Sze said China must reserve the rights to which it is entitled under the league covenant.

Chairman Briand expressed his thanks to the United States for collaboration to bring about peace.

Brokers' Loans Off $30,000,000 in Week

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ended Dec. 9 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board today as $690,000,000, a decrease of $30,000,000 under the preceding week.

JURY FINDS HIM GUILTY IN LEMKE MURDER

Bay State Woman Slain for Money on Love Trip; He Still Faces Other Charges

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 10—(INS)—It's all over but the hanging for Harry "Bluebeard" Powers.

A jury brought in a verdict of first degree murder against the strangler of Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, of Northboro, Mass., today at 5:08 p. m.

Powers had been laughing and chatting a minute before the verdict. But he sobered and flushed as the fateful words were read.

Hanging is mandatory under the law.

Both sides completed their case at 11 a. m. and Judge John C. Southern began reading instructions to the jury.

Judge Southern pointed out the jury could bring in a first degree murder verdict based on circumstantial evidence.

5 POSSIBLE VERDICTS

The court also emphasized that a presumption of innocence must be held. Judge Southern outlined these five possible verdicts:

Murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree, voluntary manslaughter, involuntary manslaughter or not guilty.

In West Virginia procedure, the court's charge is delivered prior to counsel's summaration. After Judge Southern had concluded his charge he gave each side one hour and 15 minutes for argument.

A great crowd again tried to gain admittance.

Powers today had the first chance of his trial to gloat a little over developments. The defense scored a minor victory by forcing a fresh-faced youngster to admit he was wrong in part of his testimony.

POWERS GROWS MERRY

And Powers gloated with gestures. He tapped his feet merrily, slapped his thighs, grinned all over and swung back and forth in his swivel chair.

The occasion was the contradiction of the testimony of Harry Degler, that he was sure it was on July 31 that he saw Powers on the road near the Quiet Dell "murder garage."

CONFESSION IGNORED

The importance of this point is related to the claim of Powers that he was in Uniontown, Pa., and Hagerstown, Md., on July 31. He denied being on the Quiet Dell road.

The state has ignored the written and oral confession of Powers that he slew Mrs. Lemke and Mrs. Asta Eicher of Park Ridge, Ill., and the latter's children.

Revere Trust Assets Set at $1,870,389

Book values of the closed Revere Trust Co. assets total $1,870,889.49, according to a report filed in Supreme Court today by John W. Crawford, liquidating agent.

Crawford said savings deposits amounted to $968,999.62 and commercial assets $901,889.87.

DEMOCRATS AND INSURGENTS DOOM HOOVER TAX PLAN

COALITION IS TO PASS BILL OF ITS OWN

Condemns the Proposal to Add 1,700,000 Income Rate Payers for the Benefit of Rich

Highlights in Congress today are as follows:

1—Democrats and Republican insurgents of Senate and House combine to shelve the Hoover-Mellon tax increase program and plan to offer a substitute measure.

2—Democrats want the income tax to apply to earnings of next year instead of those of 1931 and seek to extend the period for balancing the budget to four years instead of two, as proposed by the President, and to suspend national debt retirement for a few years.

3—The insurgents oppose Hoover's plan for adding 1,700,000 to present income taxpayers by reducing the exemptions to $2500 for married and $1000 for single persons.

Washington, Dec. 10—The Hoover-Mellon tax program seemed doomed today, even before Congress formally considers it.

Democrats and Republican insurgents in control of House and Senate prepared to draft and force through a rival plan.

The Democrats want to apply tax increases to incomes earned next year, instead of those earned in 1931. They want to extend the balancing act over three or four years, instead of the proposed two-year period. They want to save the impoverished classes of citizens from all taxes.

The insurgents object to any reduction in income tax exemptions and demand the increase be levied principally against the rich. They join with the Democrats in opposing some of the "nuisance" taxes suggested by the President.

The Democrats are said to favor a bond issue to meet this year's deficit, postponement of all debt retirement payments for a few years, limitation of income tax increases to incomes earned next year, and imposing a few 'nuisance" taxes.

The insurgent position was summed up by Senator Blaine (R.) of Wisconsin. He said bluntly:

"The Hoover plan would make the poor take care of the poor. That's the effect of his recommendations. We'll fight it."

NORRIS STATEMENT

Senator Norris (R.) of Nebraska, Insurgent leader, aded:

"We will oppose any reduction in income tax exemptions. We will have a tax increase program of our own, featuring increased taxes on big incomes of individuals and increased taxes on huge estates."

The new $500,000,000 Reconstruction Corp. proposed by President Hoover is one of the measures seeming to carry enough favor for victory. So is the home loan discount system the recapitalization of Federal land banks and the revision of the national bank laws.

A definite stand, however, has developed against the recommendation for liberalizing the Federal Reserve System's rules for discounting of paper.

Drys Warn Congressmen, Demand Drastic Amendments

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—An ultimatum that any member of Congress who votes to re-submit prohibition for a referendum by the states will be considered a "wet" was served upon wavering Congressmen today by the National Conference of Organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment.

The affiliated dry organizations drew up a seven-point program which they will try to have Congress enact. It embraces:

Passage of "a drastic enforcement act" in the District of Columbia.

Provision by Congress of "whatever money and men may be needed to enforce prohibition.

Prohibition of wort, malt and fruit concentrates intended to be used in the manufacture of intoxicants.

Stricter regulation of alcohol production.

Appropriations for prohibition propaganda.

Legislation to make padlock injunctions more effective.

Grandi Lauds U. S. Effort to Aid World

Rome, Dec. 10 (AP)—Efforts of American statesmen in the interests of world reconstruction provide "one of the surest courses" for the rehabilitation of nations, Dino Grandi said today in a report to the Senate on his recent visit to the United States.

As Premier Mussolini listened he asserted a "deep confidence" in the work which American statesmen have inspired.

HOOVER PLEADS FOR COURT

Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain to call a general economic conference. American participation in such a meeting depends on the program.

The position here remains that such a conference must necessarily be called by one of the European powers.

It was said in high sources that pressure from Europe to have President Hoover call such a parley have been stoutly resisted on the grounds that it is the function of Europe to convene the conference and, what is most important, make it a success.

TO REVIVE DEBT BOARD

President Hoover's message to Congress calls for revival of the commission that funded the war debts and American adherence to the League Court. He said:

"As we approach the new year it is clear that a number of the governments indebted to us will be unable to meet further payments to us in full pending recovery in their economic life.

"Therefore it will be necessary in some cases to make still further temporary adjustments," he emphasized.

Leading off with these recommendations, the message touched upon American relations with much of the rest of the world.

Mr. Hoover ranged from Manchuria to Mexico, and from the St. Lawrence waterway to Paraguay. He again urged adherence to the World Court, and vigorous action by the world at large to curb armaments.

"PREVENTED PANIC"

"The effect of this (moratorium) agreement," the President wrote, "was instantaneous in reversing the drift toward general economic panic and has served to give time to the peoples of those countries to readjust their economic life.

"The action taken was necessary. I am confident it commends itself to the judgment of the American people."

The President briefly cited the recent visits to him by Premier Laval of France and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, saying their conferences brought out "valuable understandings" of the nature of current problems.

Other than to reiterate America's "responsibility in maintaining the integrity of China" he confined his discussion of the Manchurian situation to a review of steps taken. He withheld other statement pending the decision of the League of Nations' council in Paris.

LEAGUE COURT URGED

As to the World Court, the President said safeguards against European entanglements stipulated by the Senate have been obtained "and the interests of the United States protected." He recalled that for 12 years every President and secretary of state has sought adherence.

There was an expression of hope that negotiations with Canada over the St. Lawrence waterway would result in work upon the project "within a reasonable time."

Much of the body of the message dealt with Latin American affairs. He reiterated the decision to withdraw American troops from Nicaragua after 1932; declared again for the popular government of Haiti with continued United States financial control; expressed hope for a settlement of the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay, Guatemala and Honduras, and the United States and Mexico.

RANKIN OPENS ATTACK

The House opened debate on the moratorium when reading of the message was completed. The Democrats chose Rep. Rankin, Mississippi, to lead off.

"As long as millions be unemployed, agriculture distressed and the veterans are unpaid," Rankin said, "Congress cannot vote to postpone or cancel a cent of these foreign obligations.'

When Rankin asked:

"Are you going to give a dole to these international bankers?" Several "Noes" were heard from Republicans.

"All right, then, you aren't going to vote for this moratorium," replied the Democrat.

Discussing the dole, which topped other subjects debated Wednesday when Republicans charged Democratic speakers with favoring such legislation, Rankin said the Hawley-Smoot tariff was a dole to industry.

"The growth of millionaires from 28 in 1921 to 511 in 1928 was due to the Fordney-McCumber tariff," he continued.

Bills on Everything From Fish to Freedom Pour In Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Bills by the score continued today to crowd their way to committees of Congress. Some introduced in the House today were:

Celler, of New York, to repeal the law forbidding the interstate transportation of prize fight motion pictures.

Schneider, of Wisconsin, to authorize $100,000 for a fish cultural station at Bailey's Harbor, Wisconsin.

Cochran, Missouri, to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

Blanton, Texas, to resume athletic relations between Annapolis and West Point.

Smith, Idaho, to authorize $100,000 for a public building at Burley, Idaho.

Butler, Oregon, to authorize $40,000 for an Indian village near the Dalles, Ore.

Cartwright, Oklahoma, to authorize $100,000 for an addition to the federal building at Durant, Okla.

Garber, Oklahoma, to suspend general immigration for 10 years.

Blanton, to permit the President to use the army, navy, marine corp, and militia to prevent smuggling of liquor, narcotics and aliens.

Welch, Republican, California, free the Philippines.

ANTI-WAR PACT URGED FOR U. S.

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—France cannot accept any disarmament plan that would reduce her forces in proportion to those of other states whose arms have been increased in recent years, Louis Aubert, of the superior council of national defense, told the American Club today.

He urged that the United States and France organize a permanent peace, and pledged France would participate in any agreement by insuring mutual assistance in case a war should threaten.

The United States, if it had the same vulnerable position that France has, would agree, he said, that however burdensome and costly armaments might be they are "life insurance which it is impossible to surrender except in return for adequate guarantees."

The United States can depend solely upon its navy, he said, but France needs the navy, the army and the air force for defense because of her geographical position.

"Since 1921," said M. Aubert, "the forces immediately available to France have been reduced by 42 per cent, and by 60 per cent if the mobile force of 70,000 men is away from home when danger threatens.

"France is the fourth country in total armament expenditures. Great Britain spends considerably more than France does."

1 SLAIN, 6 HURT IN BERLIN RIOTING

Opening of Christmas Truce Is Marked by Political Clashes

Berlin, Dec. 10 (INS)—Clashes between Communists and Fascists today marked the opening of President von Hindenburg's "Christmas truce" among German political parties.

One Communist was killed and two others wounded. Four Nazis also were wounded.

Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists, sought an interview with President von Hindenburg to protest the measures taken by Chancellor Bruening to suppress political opposition.

Hitler and leaders of war veterans' organizations and other political groups were incensed by the decree prohibiting them appearing in public in the military uniforms of their societies.

France Fights Cut in German Reparations

Basel, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Young plan committee was faced today with the flat opposition of France to reduction of Germany's reparation obligations.

The attack was launched by Prof. Charles Rist, noted French economist, who accompanied Premier Laval to Washington for his conferences with President Hoover and who is an expert of the Bank of France.

Prof. Rist said Germany's case is invalidated by the very figures submitted by Dr. Carl Melchior, German representative.

Albert H. Wiggin, New York banker, arrived in Berlin today for a conference of bankers at which it is hoped to straighten out the tangle of Germany's short term credits. He indicated the job may take weeks. Other delegates will go to Berlin tomorrow.

MRS. BORRE IS BRIDE OF COUNT

Mrs. Geraldine Stone Borre, wife of Peter C. Borre, State st., attorney, secretly divorced her husband in Mexico a short time ago and was married to a Russian count in Greenwich, Conn., three days ago, it was revealed here today.

While friends of the couple were surprised to learn of the split and Mrs. Borre's wedding to Count Ivan Nicolaevech Podgorsky-Podgoursky, the news came as "no surprise" to the divorced husband.

Borre added to his nonchalant acceptance of the marriage, that a divorce action of his own in which he charges cruel and abusive treatment, is on the court docket for hearing next week.

The Borres were popular in the younger set of Newton and Boston. They entertained at home and aboard their yacht. Borre's acquaintance with many movie stars, whose attendance at his parties made the entertainment distinctive, identified him as a charming host.

"My wife met the count—one of those Russians so plentiful in New York—at a dinner party in my home last June," Atty. Borre said today. "Some friend introduced them. That's how it started.

"Last September she just packed her bag and left my home, and left our daughter Jacqueline with me."

The Borres were married in 1922 The count at one time was a Beacon Hill resident of Boston

DIVORCED PAIR WILL RE-WED

Although he divorced his wife, Victoria, eight years ago because she "was cruel to him," Sigvall M. Ramsland, 52, a watchmaker of Whitlow rd., West Newton, plans to remarry her.

He filed marriage intentions in Newton today.

His divorced wife, who is 57 years of age, lives in Cedar st., Wellesley.

When Ramsland obtained a divorce Dec. 14, 1923, his wife was given custody of their two children, S. William and Robert Ramsland. She was granted $4,200 alimony and her husband was also ordered to pay $25 a month for support of his children.

A 'DEADEYE DICK' IN HOUSE

Congressman Howard, 73, in Post Now to Aid Indians He Knows and Loves

Washington, Dec. 10 (A. P.)—Plainsman of the era of "Buffalo Bill' and "Deadwood Dick" is Representative Edgar Howard, 73, Nebraskan, who becomes chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee with the House turnover.

In background and in garb, Howard fits the role. His long hair, long-tailed coat, black bow tie and broad-rimmed black hat are, he says, a life-time habit—heritage from Quaker ancestry.

But the old West way he wears them reveals a first cousin kinship to the costumes of Col. Cody's shows. His appearance also has a faint resemblance to the late William Jennings Bryan—Howard first came to Washington as Representative Bryan's secretary.

LOVES HIS INDIANS

"From the time I was ten, I have known Indians," drawled Howard today. "In Osceola, Ia., where I was born, my father was in the merchandising and live stock business. He bought some of the first longhorns ever driven up from Texas for corn feeding.

"I accompanied him on many cattle drives. Oklahoma was full of Indians and I was the more interested in them because of my Quaker breeding. I was schooled by my mother in the tradition of friendliness to them, begun by William Penn.

HAS BEEN UNDER FIRE

"And I was personally well acquainted with, and very near to Maj. Frank North, great white chief of the Pawnee scouts in Civil War days. His brother, Luther North, is still my neighbor.

"Those Pawnee scouts were the very eyes of the United States troopers detailed to protect the early settlers."

Howard's cow range experiences were always mixed with newspapering, he said. He covered the country as a tramp printer. And 45 years ago he was combining cowboy sharpshooting with editing the Dundy County Democrat at Benkleman. He was twice shot and slightly wounded, he recalled, by people who didn't like what he printed.

All the Indians left in Nebraska—Omahas, Winnebagos, Proncas and Santee Sioux—are concentrated in Howard's district where he still combines newspapering and politics.

JAPAN TO STAY IN MANCHURIA, SAYS GIBBONS

Noted War Correspondent Finds the Disputed Area Covered With Miniature Forts

Floyd Gibbons, famous war correspondent, has just arrived at Mukden to report the Manchurian conflict for International News Service. Following is his first dispatch:

EXCLUSIVE!

By FLOYD GIBBONS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Copyright, 1931, by International News Service

Mukden, Dec. 10 (INS)—Hello everybody.

This blast comes from Manchuria and is being written on the train between Seoul, Korea, and Mukden.

We crossed the Korean frontier into Manchuria several hours ago and in the time since then it has been possible to form a strong first impression of this land in which events of tremendous importance to the world are taking place right now. That impression can be fixed in six words, as follows:

Japan is in Manchuria to stay

Floyd Gibbons

Chinese customs and immigration officials boarded the train at Antung, the first Chinese border town on the Yalu river and inspected baggage and passports. They made the customary manifestations of Chinese sovereignty, but the ground on which this railroad runs appears as much under the control and in the possession of the Japanese as the Panama Canal belongs to Uncle Sam.

LINES ALL GUARDED

Railroads, bridges and tunnels bristle with firmly established permanent defenses.

Gray and white reinforced cement "pill boxes," with ominous black portholes are on all sides. They are surmounted by gray steel armor-plated turrets, with revolving machine gun mounts. Every bridgehead position and every place where the road crosses a river or ravine is guarded by them.

Larger block houses of the same material, similarly equipped, with the possible addition of mounts for small-caliber field pieces, dominate the black, smoke-grimed mouths of each tunnel through the mountains.

SENTRIES ON PATROL

A number of railroad stations with space cleared around all approaches resemble miniature fortresses built of red brick and cement with cement firing walls superimposed on the roofs like parapets with castellated battlements and observation towers commanding all sides.

STUDYING A MAP

The seat ahead of me is occupied by an elderly, short fat Japanese officer in full uniform with a red band around the crown of his khaki colored visored cap. He wears horn-rimmed glasses and his sharp eyes are studying a map held on the back of a leather dispatch case.

When the train stops soldiers and officers on the platform salute the officer inside through the train window.

Last night when the train pulled out of Seoul station small crowds of men in civilian dress and women in kimonos cheered, shouting "banzais" as they waved farewell to the officers and soldiers on the train.

Later in a modern dining car half a dozen young soldiers accepted an invitation to my table. They drank beer and ate sandwiches, trying to outdo one another in seeing who could eat the most hot foreign mustard without their eyes watering.

PREFERS DEATH

One soldier, wearing a black ribbon and a religious charm around his neck as a protection against death in war, became involved in a joking argument with a companion, who disclaimed the need of a good luck piece, and, unembarrassed, declared his preference for death in the service of his country to survival. There was no kidding about the statement, either—no fooling, no mock or burlesque bravado, but smiling, serious sincerity.

This deep set will to sacrifice on the part of these soldiers and these ever-present pill boxes, blockhouses and fortlike stations guarding the railroad, not forgetting the Japanese mother darning socks, contribute to my conviction that Japan is in Manchuria to stay.

Russian Reds Scoff at U. S. Variety, Says McEvoy

New York, Dec. 10—The "much-abused Communist" lamenting his fate and that of the world, gets no sympathy, even in Russia, it was discovered by J. P. McEvoy, author and playwright, who returned on the S. S. Ile de France.

"To the real Russian," McEvoy said, the American "red" is nothing but an outright "pink," and does not truthfully represent the Communistic idea.

"Furthermore, they have no interest in, nor respect for him."

Henderson Visits France to Seek "Rest Cure"

London, Dec. 10—Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary in recent Labor ministry, has left for Cannes, France, to undergo a "rest cure."

His departure, however, will impede his attending the February disarmament conference, at which he will preside.

"I expect to continue as president of the conference," Mr. Henderson said, "unless, of course, I am otherwise requested by the League of Nations Council, which appointed me, I have not heard anything regarding postponement of the conference."

QUINCY WOMAN 'HOAX' VICTIM

Imagine the embarrassment of Miss Elizabeth Garrity, defeated candidate for the Quincy school board, when she was interrupted at a quiet lunch in her home today by the arrival of five policemen in a patrol wagon and half the city's firemen clinging to eight pieces of careening apparatus.

Some woman—for whom police are now searching—telephoned the police that there was a burglar in her home at 13 Cottage st., and immediately afterward phoned the fire department that there was an incipient conflagration there.

CANNON BROKER LOSES PAROLE

Washingotn, Dec. 10 (AP)—The parole of Harry L. Goldhurst, broker, who handled stocks for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., has been revoked.

A report disclosing that Goldhurst attempted to bribe an assistant in the United States attorney's office in the southern district of New York was made public today by Atty.-Gen. Mitchell.

The report revealed that former U. S. Atty. Charles H. Tuttle and former Asst. U. S. Atty. Robert E. Manley recommended parole for Goldhurst while knowing of the attempt at corruption.

LAY PLIGHT OF 7 TO MONOXIDE

Carbon monoxide gas may have caused the poisoning of Mrs. Elizabeth E. Gillis, of Peabody, and her six children.

This possibility was brought to the forefront today when Dr. J. W. P. Murphy, family physician, asked the state fire marshal to send an expert to examine a heater in the home where the family was stricken early yesterday.

The six children, who were sent to J. B. Thomas Hospital, and the mother, who was treated at home, were apparently well on the road to recovery today, the doctor said.

While food was first suspected as the cause of the malady and the theory of foul play was even entertained, Dr. Murphy said that he and Dr. Roy Wheeler, Harvard toxicologist whom he called in to aid in diagnosis, had decided that carbon monoxide gas might be the explanation.

Woman in Checker Match for Charity

Detroit, Dec. 10 (AP)—Lenz-Culbertson? Bosh. Here's a checker match; Police Sergeant John Koch vs. Mrs. Palmena Warnars. The Sarge said he hadn't seen a woman who could beat him at checkers in 20 years. Mrs. Warnars said:

"Mister, you're looking at one now."

So a big championship match has been arranged, admission 25 cents, charity take all.

Victorious Democrats Take Over Choice House Offices

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Today was moving day on the House side of the Capitol.

Speaker Garner moved from the minority leader's office to the Speaker's office, occupied for 12 years by Republicans.

The Republican leaders are evacuating their big and comfortables offices in the Capitol for commonplace rooms in the House Office Building. Chairmen of Republican committees in the last House are making way for Democratic chairmen in the new House.

ESCAPES DEATH BY FUMES

Little Edward Gillis, aged 18 months, who was overcome by strange illness that felled his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gillis, and five other children in their home in Peabody. Monoxide gas is believed to have caused the illness of the family. All are on the road to recovery.

TREASURER IS NINTH MAN TO SURRENDER

Only $75,000 Now Needed to Proceed With Reorganization of Closed Bank

E. Earl Blakely, treasurer, and Abel S. Price, former director of the Medford Trust Co., surrendered in Middlesex court today and pleaded not guilty to violation of banking laws.

They were the ninth and tenth of 12 men to surrender in connection with the bank's closing.

Edwin T. McKnight, president, faces extradition from Florida, and two others are yet to be arraigned.

Another result of the bank's closing came today when John C. Hull, director of the "blue sky" division of the Department of Public Utilities, revoked the licenses of Herman J. Keller, broker, and James Rubenstein, salesman, for alleged fraudulent sale of Medford Trust Co. stock to Miss Alice P. Carey of Medford.

Papers for McKnight's extradition were signed by Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner today and sent to Gov. Ely for approval.

Blakely's arraignment came as a committee of depositors saw the need of only $75,000 between them and reorganization of the closed bank.

Faced with a need for $500,000 a few days ago, the committee announced that $175,000 has been raised in addition to the conditional offer of Alvan T. Fuller for a free loan of $250,000. Fuller's offer provides that four or five other men duplicate the amount.

STROLLING NAG BRINGS FINE

The time-honored milk delivery—with the faithful steed plodding along as his driver scurried from house to house—was dealt a sad blow in Quincy court today.

Lewis F. Riley of South st. was found guilty of violating a city ordinance by doing it.

"Not properly weighting or securely fastening a horse to a post," the charge read.

Riley pleaded nolo, the case was filed and he paid $3 court costs.

His wagon was struck a few weeks ago by an automobile driven by Joseph Driscoll of Ocean ave., Scituate.

110 PARKERS ARE SET FREE BY COURT

Cases Dismissed When Prosecuting Patrolman Fails to Produce Evidence

Chief Justice Wilfred Bolster found 110 parkers not guilty today in municipal court when Patrolman John T. Clifford of Lagrange st. station admitted he had no evidence against them.

Ten others summoned by Clifford paid fines of $5 each after pleading guilty to overtime parking on downtown streets.

In dismissing the 110 cases, because the officer did not see the cars parked or taken away, Chief Justice Bolster said:

"Overshadowing all other considerations is the provision in the bill or rights that a defendant is entitled to be confronted with the witnesses against him."

CONNER'S LOVE IS 'UNDYING'

There was a letter today for May Gledhill, Canadian "ski girl" at the Florida Park, L. I., cottage where she was sheltered by the Malden wife of William Conner, to whom she bore a child without benefit of clergy.

It came addressed to Mrs. Inez Conner, wife of the M. I. T. graduate and once wealthy engineer, now serving a prison term for forgery in a Vermont jail.

For some time, Conner sent in one envelope love letters to both women, who read them to each other.

Today's letter from Conner, however, was for May, who is still in Nassau county hospital, recovering from a nervous break-down. It read:

"My dearest May: I knew you were in the hospital. I received the information in a letter from Inez.

"You know of my undying love for you. As soon as you leave the hospital, pack up and bring the baby, Sonny, to your home in Canada. I will see you both as soon as possible. God bless you and take care of Sonny. All my love to you both."

LESS WORK FOR VASSAR GIRLS

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—The notorqiety given the 155 Vassar College freshmen who admitted they used other notes in preparing a thesis has satisfactorily punished the girls, said Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president, today.

Barbara Bailey, a senior and eritor of the Miscellany News, which exposed the situation through a questionnaire believes the faculty will adjust the assignments so that freshme nhereafter cannot complain of being over-worked.

'SPOTLIGHT' FOR CANDIDATES

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—A sweeping publicity law, affecting candidates for President, Vice-President, the Cabinet, Senators and Representativ was proposed in the Senate this afternoon by Sen. Black (R) of Alabama.

Black proposed that all candidates be required to publish an itemized list of their holdings in bonds, stock and securties within 15 days after announcng their candidacies.

It Wasn't the Fine but the 'Principle'

Max F. Vogelsang, 25, of Arlington st., Hyde Park went to jail today for "the principle of the thing."

Charged with illegally parking his automobile off the roadway in the Metropolitan reservation, Milton, Vogelsang was fined $15.

"I won't pay the fine. I'd rather have a sentence. It's the principle of the thing," he told Judge Albert Avery in Quincy Court.

"Work it out for 30 days," the court ordered.

Vogelsang said he was a student but declined to say what school he attended.

FOLEY ACTS IN BANK CLOSE

Dist. Atty. Foley and John V. Spaulding, special counsel for Bank Commissioner Arthur Guy, today went into conference on the affairs of the Industrial Bank & Trust Co., South End.

The conference followed a report of Guy today to Atty.-Gen Joseph E. Warner and the latter's order for Foley to start grand jury action.

Spaulding, meanwhile, has prepared civil actions in equity court to recover bank funds he charged were illegally taken.

Spaulding's action was on charges by City Councillor John F. Dowd of Roxbury that bank officials hurriedly replaced negotiable securities with comparatively worthless stock just before the bank was closed.

Dowd made his charge in a letter to Governor Ely that Edwin T. McKnight, indicted president of the Medford Trust Company, was principally in control of the South End bank.

Maine Plant Leased

Springvale, Me., Dec. 10 (AP)—Directors of the Springvale Shoe Shop Co. today announced that the Central Shoe Co. of Boston is planning to lease part of their plant and start manufacturing shoes here within three weeks.

How Hoover-Mellon Tax Program Is Viewed Abroad

London, Dec. 10 (INS)—The Hoover-Mellon tax program for next two years created a sensation here today.

The program was set forth under glaring headlines such as "Stinging New Taxes for the United States," "America Feels the Blizzard," "Hoover Calls for Sacrifices" and "United States Calls Up 1,700,000 New Taxpayers."

"These facts and figures," declared the Daily Chronicle, "furnish absolute proof of the impossibility these days of the economic isolation.

"If the richest nation in the world cannot live to itself, no nation can. All must suffer together. The tale of rich America and of poverty-stricken Germany is the same. Both emphasize the urgent necessity of an international conference."

Jerry Dalrymple Out in Few D~ys

New Orleans, Dec. 10 (INS)—Jerry Dalrymple of the Tulane football team, was "progressing nicely" toward recovery today from a kidney injury received in the game with Washington State last Saturday.

Dalrymple said he expects within a few days to begin practice for the Rose Bowl game with Southern California on New Year's Day.

CAROL DELAYS EXILE OF HIS BROTHER

Court Tutor Refutes Stories, but They Persist; Lupescu Would Be Queen

Bucharest, Dec. 10 (AP)—Determined to keep his commoner bride, the former Mme. Jana Lucia Doletj, Prince Niklas of Rumania was understood today to have renounced membership in the royal family.

Premier Jorga, who was once King Carol's tutor, denied the report, which said the renunciation was a copy of a similar one presented by King Carol himself, under similar circumstances in 1926, when he was Crown Prince and before he went into exile.

It was believed, in view of the Premier's denial, that Carol is determined now not to exclude his brother from the family, and wishes to allow him six months more in which to "think it over."

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—A report that Mme. Magda Lupescu, former companion of King Carol during his exile, has forsaken Judaism with a view to qualifying herself to become Queen of Rumania was brought here today by foreign diplomats from Bucharest.

It was understood in Bucharest, the report said, that a number of persons attached to the royal palace, on the grounds of which Mme. Magda is understood to live in a small house, already address her as "Your Majesty."

Nothing in the Rumanian constitution prevents her from occupying the golden throne once occupied by Dowager Queen Marie, but it was rumored that Carol hesitated to conclude a formal marriage ceremony fearing the Rumanian people might be reluctant to accept a commoner queen.

CROSSING CRASH TAKES 3 LIVES

Newtown, Ct., Dec. 10 (AP)—One man and two women were killed and another man was critically hurt early today when their automobile was struck by a railroad gas car near the bridge over the Pomperaug river, and hurled 200 feet onto the bridge.

George E. Green was killed outright. Miss Josephine Mortimer and Miss Cecelia Mortimer, her sister, died in Danbury hospital.

Walter Wright, the fourth passenger, is in the hospital suffering from scalp wounds. All were from Bridgeport.

The crossing where the accident took place is on a private road approaching the railroad down a steep grade. A cut, through which the railroad approaches the road, obscures vision.

6 HURT AS CAR OVERTURNS

Auburn, Dec. 10 (AP)—Six persons were injured here today when their car overturned.

They were: Howard Egbert, 26, of Dover, N. J., multiple bruises and possible fracture of right shoulder; City Hospital, Worcester.

Clifford Egbert, 21, of Dover, N. J., bruises and shaken up.

Mrs. Sophia Baura, 43, of Newark, N. J., two fractured ribs and wrenched neck.

Mrs. Lillian Nixon, 31, of Dover, N. J., multiple bruises and sprained right ankle.

Faith Nixon, 14 months, of Dover, N. J., minor bruises.

Gregory Johnson, 5, of Dover, N. J., minor bruises.

JANE ADDAMS TO USE NOBEL PRIZE FOR PEACE WORK

Founder of Hull House, Now 71, Active as Pacifist Since 1915

Nicholas Murray Butler, Head of Columbia, to Share $40,000 Award

Universal Service notified Miss Jane Addams, international peace worker and founder of Hull House, Chicago, that she had won the Nobel peace prize for 1931 jointly with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University. The information was conveyed to Miss Addams in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where she is a patient.

The prize will approximate $40,000, of which Miss Addams will get half. She announced that she would give her share to the Women's International League for Peace.

She then dictated the following:

By MISS JANE ADDAMS

Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 10—I have not been informed officially of such a magnificent honor, but if it is true I am highly gratified that the peace prize judges have seen fit to honor me. First, I want to congratulate Dr. Butler. He is a splendid and indefatigable worker for international peace.

In the absence of the citations which, I presume, will be announced from abroad, I can only say that I assume that the prize was awarded me for the work that has been accomplished under my direction for international peace, for disarmament and for the fact that for many years I was president of the Women's International League for Peace.

DR. BUTLER

MISS JANE ADDAMS

MET DURING WAR

For many years leading women of this country and a score of foreign countries have worked in the interest of peace between nations. One of our first meetings was held at the Hague in 1916 while the European war was raging.

PROGRESS IN BRITAIN

For more than 15 years the women of America have worked for peace. Our ideas spread abroad until now there are International League branches in 26 countries. Thousands of women in these countries are working for world peace and disarmament.

Splendid work has been accomplished in England, where the women's International League in the British Isles has obtained petitions containing more than one million and a quarter names favoring disarmament. We recently presented our American petition to President Hoover, and he promised to keep the petition safely and present it at the proper time at the coming disarmament conference in London.

Thousands of other women in America and abroad have worked unceasingly in the interest of peace and I know that they will be happy to learn that two Americans—a man and a woman—have been honored by receiving the peace award.

New York, Dec. 10 (US)—Miss Jane Addams, noted Chicago settlement worker, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, will share the Nobel peace prize, the consul general of Norway announced here last night.

The amount of the prize award varies with the income from the fund established by the will of A. B. Nobel. It has averaged $40,000 for several years but last year jumped to $46,000.

The awards were announced at a meeting of the Nobel Institute in Oslo, Norway.

Dr. Butler, 69, has been president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace since 1925 and a director since 1910. Miss Addams is founder and president of the Women's International League for Peace. She is 71.

DEATH CHEATED BY GLOUCESTER FISHERMEN

Five Gloucester fishermen, their trawler Anna Mae swallowed by quicksands off Norfolk, Va., were rescued as they clung to the masts today.

The little trawler became engulfed in the sands yesterday afternoon and a coastguard life saving crew was dispatched from Cape Hatteras.

The crew searched for hours without success for the little craft and failed to sight it until today. The five men were clinging to the masts as the vessel was slowly being drawn into the earth.

The Anna Mae sailed out of Portsmouth, Va., a few days ago. She was believed to be on a return trip from the fishing banks when she ran into the quicksand. She was pounded inshore by heavy seas.

BORDER BRIDGE CURFEW STAYS

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—Following calls on President Hoover and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, Rep. Swing (R) California announced today he had received assurances there would be no change in the closing hour of the international bridge across the Mexican border in southern California.

His visits were prompted by the opening of six gates in Texas.

"Aside from liquor and morals, about $5,000,000 a year goes across the border into Tia Juana and Mexicali which never comes back," Swing declared. "That is our interest."

The Tia Juana gateway will continue to open at 6 a. m., and close at 8 p. m., while that at Mexicali will be available to traffic from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Westboro Dealer to Sell Milk at 6 Cents

Westboro, Dec. 10 (AP)—While out of town milk dealers who deliver milk in Westboro were announcing a drop in the price to 10 cents a quart, another dealer announced that beginning Monday he would retail milk for six cents per quart.

Prices now range from six cents to 12 cents.

The Gallows or Lynching, Bluebeard Fate Certain

Margaret Lane, star fe writer of the London Express guest writer for International N Service, accustomed to the calm liberate movement of the Eng courts, in the following story p her vivid picture of "Blueb Harry Powers' murder trial.

By MARGARET LANE

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. (INS)—Excitement runs so high Clarksburg over the clo scenes of the "Bluebeard" trial if the jury does not return the pected verdict today, Moore's Op House is liable to be a rough ho and the crowds troublesome their anxiety for a fitting gallows curtain to their melodrama.

Perhaps never in the history of crime has a community so violently, so determinedly, demanded a life for a life.

Clarksburg means to hound Harry Powers to the scaffold.

"If they acquitted him today," a policeman told an International News Service reporter, "we wouldn't be able to get him out of the town alive."

HATED EVEN IN JAIL.

When Powers was lodged in the local jail, the prisoners were more violently against him than the town. The prison authorities were afraid to let him exercise with the other prisoners and he was kept practically in solitary confinement to protect him from their rough justice.

Thirty-five thousand people visited the Quiet Dell murder farm on the first Sunday after the crime was discovered—an amazing number for this thinly-populated section of West Virginia. Ever since that time the mud road to Quiet Dell has been churned up by pleasure traffic, hundreds of thousands have gone down into the four underground death cells of the "garage" to fan their righteous indignation.

MOB TRIES LYNCHING.

A crowd gathered muttering around the jail one night and had to be dispensed by the police with tear-gas bombs. Now, when Powers arrives each morning at the Opera House the crowd hisses him and there are cries of "get him," as the police hustle him into the building.

Every successive stage in the progress of the trial has made it clearer that his fate is doubly and trebly sealed. The audience has laughed in Powers' face when he told his own rambling story of defense, and they have leaned forward in tense excitement and all but cheered when some particularly damning piece of evidence has been given against him.

Powers is being sent to his death no so much by direct evidence as by the rage of thousands who believe, before it is proven, the story of his crimes. In any other case, no just man could listen to this trial without feeling sympathy for the stout, respectable looking little man on the stand. But not in the case of Powers. His crimes—and there seems no loophole of escape from belief in them—are too horrible to consider sanely.

GHASTLY PLACE

I went out late last night to the murder farm at Quiet Dell, the fields were dark and deserted. It was not a pleasant place to be, the "garage" stood open to the field for the mob has torn down its doors. Inside was the gaping trap door leading down to the lightless airless cells that Powers had built below the floor — each equipped with a door that locked and a mysterious gas jet.

There were bloodstains on the ceiling of one of the cells where the two women and three children had died. It is a remote, lonely place, where no one would hear their cries from underground. The wind was blowing through the broken wall over the open ditch grave outside in the dark. It is a place where a hundred murders might be commited, a hundred bodies destroyed, and no one been any the wiser.

I shivered and hurried up the cellar stairs. Under the beam where the moon hung over the trap, and was glad of the lights of my car shining into the dark place.

Justice or no justice, it is possible to understand the fury of the Clarksburg mob, that will not be satisfied until Powers is in the chair, or hanged from a rope by their own hands.

Brown Faces Quiz on Mail Contracts

Washington, Dec. 10 (US)—Postmaster-General Brown today was called upon to submit to the Senate all information concerning airmail contracts in a resolution introduced by Senator McKellar (D.), of Tennessee.

A second resolution called for similar information regarding ocean mail contracts.

N. E. GOVERNORS IN PROTEST

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Five New England governors today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit them to intervene in opposition to railroad proposals for consolidation of lines in the east.

Governors Wilbur L. Cross of Connecticut, William Gardiner of Maine, Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, John G. Winant of New Hampshire and Stanley C. Wilson of Vermont signed the petition.

The governors said that in their opinion the purpose of Congress would not be carried out if the commission approved without modification or condition the consolidation plan of the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore & Ohio, the New York Central and the Chesapeake & Ohio railroads.

On the contrary, they asserted, it "will tend to diminish competition and to close existing routes and channels or trade and commerce."

$25,000 Boston Rum Cargo Is Seized

Liquors, destined for the Boston market and valued at $25,000, were seized today. At Harpswell, Me., a few hours after a speedboat landed the cargo. A telephone tip gave the first inkling of the landing and information that the liquor was consigned to Boston, Chief of Police Edwards said.

He was granted a warrant for J. W. Oliver, caretaker of the garage in which the liquor was found.

Hoover Gives Trophy to 'Safest Fliers'

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—In recognition of their feat in having flown more than 3000 hours without serious accident to personnel or material last year, President Hoover today presented the Herbert Schiff memorial trophy to the officers and men of the U. S. Reserve aviation base at Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lieut. Richard F. Whitehead, commanding officer of the base, received the trophy.

TRUNK SLAYER CONFESSES

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Police announced today that Otto Jochmann had confessed that, because of jealousy, he killed Louis Jensen, a clerk of Hoboken, N. J., whose body was found last night in a trunk in Jochmann's upper Park ave. apartment.

They said the motive for the killing was Jochmann's jealous love for Johanna Schlecht, a young servant girl, who was engaged to marry Jensen.

Police said Jochmann called Tuesday for Jensen at the Bakers' supply house where he worked and took him in a taxi to his apartment, then shot Jensen to death.

Police said after Jochmann had killed Jensen and placed his body in the trunk Miss Schlecht and others arrived for a party that had been arranged and that Jochmann made an excuse for Jensen, saying he had been unable to come.

Girl Tramps Now Known as "Sheboes"

Miami, Fla., Dec. 10 (AP)—Chief of Detectives L. O. Scarboro has coined a word to designate girls who travel in side door Pullmans and on the blind baggage.

He called Eva Kochs, who arrived in a freight car, a "shebo," explaining that it was a feminine form for hobo.

Ely Headquarters Still in Phone Book But Nobody Calls

The telephone number Commonwealth 6833 meant something a year ago, but although it is still in the telephone book it means nothing now.

Today the telephone company discovered that this number, assigned to the Governor Ely campaign headquarters at 124 St. James ave., was still in the directory listing, but had been assigned to a subscriber in Concord sq.

The subscriber's number has been changed, however, and all calls hereafter for Commonwealth 6835 will be intercepted.

Philippine Freedom Convention Called

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—Following conferences with members of both Houses of Congress, Dr. Hilario Camino Moncado, Philippine independence champion, has issued a cal for a national convention of Filipinos in Los Angeles, Dec. 23, to Jan. 1.

Filipinos will be asked to vote which independence bill now pending they will support.

Hankscraft Egg Cooker Set
This appliance makes rosy breakfasts! It boils or poaches eggs—soft, medium, hard—electrically. No watching a minute hand. This particular model is brand new—in blue, green, or yellow—with a cooker, which alone sells regularly for $5.50. But, to entice you, the cooker, poaching dish, metal tray, and four egg cups—complete—is only $7.50.

Telechron Kitchen Clock
Here is a clock that will give you "time serenity." It is always correct, and dependable as the current which lights your home. No winding—no adjusting. Choose it in white, ivory, black, green, blue, yellow, or orange. It is designed especially for the kitchen. If you want one for some other room there are forty-eight other models. (For alternating current only.) Price, $9.75.

Gift Lamps
Lamps make such delightful gifts—there's hardly a room where another one, or two, would be superfluous. Right now, we have an especially fine assortment. Why not see them at once?

Sunbeam Mixmaster
"It beats everything"
Well-named—this appliance. It mixes, beats, whips, stirs, and extracts fruit juices in masterly fashion—and leaves you free and cheery as a sunbeam! It boasts a mayonnaise dripper and seven other distinguishing features. We'd like to show it to you—this description doesn't begin to do it justice. Price, $21.00.

Electric Cigarette Lighters
"Matchless convenience"—that's what these lighters mean. They're clean and so convenient, in both the home and the office. Just plug them in. Price: Monowatt, $1; Lucifer, $2.50.

Universal Toaster
Here is an electric toaster that's so smartly styled, just to look at it spruces you up! But that's not all. It's one of the fastest little workers you ever saw. It turns the toast by opening the bread rack, and, in no time, out pops hot, crisp, golden-brown toast. Price, $4.50.

Samson Panel-matic Iron
What do you say to an electric iron that gives you twenty-five different heats! Simply turn the selector to the heat you want, and the panel-matic automatically stops there. This sounds astounding—and the price, too. Only $5.95. This is the lowest price at which we have ever been able to offer an adjustable-automatic iron. (For alternating current only.)

Universal Sandwich Toaster
This appliance makes possible all sorts of delicacies for luncheons, parties, suppers—and the most divine sandwiches! Without any dillydallying either, for it toasts both sides at once. You can use it for frying and broiling, too. Price, $13.50.

Royal Rochester Percolator
A percolator that gives you six full cups, and then one more for good measure! And it's tidy. Not so much as a tiny drop ever reaches the tablecloth—it has a "non-drip" spout. You'll like its graceful Queen Anne lines—its sturdiness and lasting sheen—it's chromium plated. But best of all, taste the full-flavored coffee it turns out! Price, $9.95.

BILLY'S MOTHER WENT SOUTH

Baltimore, Dec. 10 (INS)—Detectives seeking the woman who abandoned 2-year-old "William Guthrie Lord," at the Lord Baltimore Hotel last week, looked to Norfolk, Va., today in their search.

The woman, who registered as "Mrs. J. H. McKnight," Boston, was last seen boarding a bus for Norfolk, police have learned.

Juvenile court authorities placed him in a private home until arrangements for his care can be made at the Nursery and Childs Hospital.

He answers to "Billy." The other names were given by a judge who liked the combination.

News When Yuma Does Not Shine

Yuma, Ariz., Dec. 10 (INS)—The sun had failed to shine today, and that was news, because it was the first time since August 7, 1930, that Yuma's perpetual supply of daily sunshine had been missing.

Chilean Congress Is Bombarded by Mob With Fish, Onions

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 10 (AP)—A mob "lobbied" the Chilean Congress last night with dried fish and a Mulligan stew bombardment of onions, other vegetables and crockery.

Unsuccessful in forcing the Congress to dissolve as they demanded, the mob retreated into the streets, stoned and wrecked street cars and store windows and had begun to lay down a barrage of pistol fire when the streets were cleared by a rush of 1000 policemen.

Several persons were injured and 20 were arrested.

DUCE GETTING NEAR PEOPLE

Rome, Dec. 10 (AP)—Premier Mussolini effected a reorganization ofthe Fascist party directorate today by apointing seven new membes, all of whom are provincial psty chieftains.

The appointments are in fulfillmet of a new policy of "getting clse to the people." Achille Starace successor to Signor Giuriati as secetary, and Prof. Arturo Marpioti, as vice-secretary, are the onl old members remaining.

The other members are Matteo Adolfi, also a vice-secretary, and six directors. Signors Tommaso Bouri, Ranieri, Dolfin, Brato, Cupllo and Gastaldi. Giovanni Manelli continues as permanent adminstrative secretary.

Taxpayers Say "No"

Gocoe, Ill., Dec. 10 (INS)—Because of a taxpayers' "strike," this Chiego suburb today faced possible closing of its three elementary schos, which have an enrollment of 10.

OTHERMAN, NOT MA, BLAMED

Los Angeles, Dec. 10 (INS)—George W. Sheldon's affection for his pretty young wife cooled when he learned she had gone riding with another man, he testified today as a witness for his mother, Mrs. Wenonah Sheldon, the defendant in a $150,000 alienation of affections suit brought by his wife.

The Sheldons were divorced and she blamed his mother, alleging the elder Mrs. Sheldon monopolized her son's time.

When he reprimanded his wife for keeping company with the other man she drew a revolver, Sheldon testified.

Chicago, Dec. 10 (INS)—Effective Jan. 1, milk will sell for 12 cents a quart here, instead of 13 cents, following an agreement reached between distributing companies and a farmers' cooperative.

Leaders in Battle as Migrating Ducks Fly High Over Train

A bitter battle between two leaders in a flight of ducks provided an interesting departure from the usual routine for early morning commuters between Middleboro and Boston today.

F. S. Dobbins, conductor of a New Haven train reported that eight ducks were first seen from the train near Westdale and that there was apparently some trouble. Between Matfield and Campello, he said, the trouble developed into a fight between two leaders.

The train continued on to Brockton and there the ducks were again sighted. They had caught up to the train and continued on, headed in a northeasterly direction. One of the leaders had apparently won the battle as there were no further signs of trouble.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 10 (INS)—Notre Dame will play the Navy at the Cleveland Municipal Stadium on Nov. 19, 1932, it was announced today.

21 RAIL GROUPS DISCUSS CUT

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—Union labor's disposition of the suggestion of railway companies that workers accept a voluntary 10 per cent wage reduction appeared problematical today as 1,600 delegates from 21 railroad unions went into 21 group meetings.

While D. B. Robertson, chairman, said the wage question had not yet been touched upon at the conferences this week, other leaders intimated the matter might not be discussed at all, since, they claimed, no formal requests have been made to anyone in authority for such a wage reduction.

The Chicago Tribune said Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, chairman of the committee of nine railroad presidents which met in New York last month with union heads, was in the city and that he might be invited to address the union delegates.

MRS. SAMUEL WARREN AND MR. AND MRS. HENDRICKS H. WHITMAN are two new sponsors of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, which comes to Boston February 1. This two weeks of opera is the most important musical and social event of the winter. It is gratifying to hear so many of the young group eager for its reappearance this season and comments on their favorite stars. Not to be familiar with the well-known scores is frowned upon by the cultured young men and women, and it augurs well for the continuance of this musical treat in our city.

THERE IS ONE GOOD thing about contract bridge among the many that might be disapproved of and that is the opportunity it gives to the excellent players to instruct the novices in the art. Many Boston matrons are garnering in a few stray dollars and enjoying doing it for the love of the game teaching the new rules to their friends. We hear that Mrs. McMillan, whose attractive husband is stationed in Washington, will stay in Boston this winter and teach contract. Another popular matron, Mrs. Charlotte Ware, is doing likewise and, as we told you weeks ago, Mrs. John H. Sherbourne also. The only game WE know well enough to teach is Parcheesi and one of our chief joys in life is having a HOT game before the children settle down to home lessons every night.

Musicales to Start Dec. 16

A week from yesterday, Wednesday, the 16th, will see the opening of the 1931-'32 season of the Boston Morning Musicales. Five hundred patronesses' names are enrolled this year, and the demand for seats shows that though this series of musical programs have not been established very long, the establishment has been thorough and interest increases.

This is probably the most remarkably popular charitable affair ever put on in Boston, and whatever the weather, the Statler ballroom is always full. The Boston School for Occupational Therapy benefits.

Mrs. John W. Meyers heads, and has charge of, the committee running and arranging the programs. On Wednesday, Claude Muzio of the priceless voice, will sing for the subscribers at 11 o'clock.

Though the list of sponsors is much too long to record here, we will give a few representative names, such as: Mrs. George R. Agassiz, Mrs. John S. Ames, Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, Mrs. Godfrey Cabot, Mrs. Harold G. Cutler, Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, Mrs. George Peabody Gardner and Mrs. [illegible] Peabody Gardner, Jr., Mrs. Huntington R. Hospital Wing Open Today

Redoubled efforts to combat the spread of rheumatic heart disease will be made by the House of the Good Samaritan with the opening this afternoon of its new research wing, adjoining the hospital at 25 Binney st.

The annex, which is to be devoted exclusively to a study of the infection, is being dedicated at 3:30 o'clock. Dr. T. Duckett Jones, research director at the hospital, will direct a staff including a field worker and several laboratory assistants.

Following the dedication Miss Louise M. Coleman, superintendent, is to supervise an inspection of the new wing and the hospital.

The House of the Good Samaritan was founded by Miss Anne Smith Robbins, 71 years ago. During the past decade the hospital has been especially concerned with rheumatic heart disease cases, for whom the general hospitals cannot provide sufficiently long periods of treatment. This hospital cares for more chronic rheumatic fever cases than does any other institution in the country.

BOOKS—and a Number of Things

—By CHARLES HANSON TOWNE—

Weekly Gazette

Monday, Nov. 30: One of those mornings when my two fingers hit the typewriter keys with no effort at all, and the work went so well that I stepped out in the afternoon highly elated. Yet I know only too well that the contrary is likely to happen, so one should not feel too exuberant. In the evening to a large dinner given by the Tony Biddles at the Casino in Central Park, and had a delightful talk with Mrs. Walter Chrysler, whom I had not seen for three years, and met many other old friends. Home at midnight.

* * *

Tuesday, Dec. 1: Appalled by the fact that November had passed so swiftly, that an income tax instalment is due this month, and that Christmas is so close at hand. Dined with Margaret Case Morgan and found Jack Harriman and Virginia Gardiner there, and we had the most serious conversation about life and death, and I marveled how the young people of today can give their elders something to think about. And I came to the conclusion that parties of four are the best of all—except parties of two.

* * *

Verse Writers

Wednesday, Dec. 2d: Read many articles in The Thinker, a comparatively new magazine, and liked them exceedingly. Another poetry magazine called Voices came to me, and I wondered at the number of young verse-writers there are throughout this country. They are thicker than the Little Theaters which dot our land; yet some of them show great promise, and few nowadays indulge in free verse, which proves what I have always contended—that this was a fad which had its brief hour; and I am glad that it has practically disappeared. And in reading these small magazines, I was minded of the days of the English Yellow Book, and our own Chap Book and The Lark, which contained the best work of the writers of their day; and I wished that I had retained some copies of them for my library.

In the evening with Lady Vi to dinner Dick Hoyt, and amazed at the beauty and comfort of their home in the heart of New York, with a swimming pool and squash court, and an enormous living room, about the loveliest I ever saw. Neysa McMein there, with her husband, Jack Baragwanath, and Ralph and Peggy Pulitzer; and we played a new form of rummy which turned out to be great fun, and I shall never play the old game at all.

* * *

Thursday, Dec. 3rd: Rose with the lark so that I might accomplish a mighty amount of work before lunching with Theodosia Garrison; and she tempted me into seeing "The Streets of New York," with Mrs. Kelley and Julia Condit, and we were delighted with it, and with that old song, "Whoa, Emma," in which the whole audience joined in the chorus, as they used to do when I was a lad. And we were enchanted with the lines printed on the program, such as "Keep your gold! It would soil my poverty."

Read in "Stuffed Shirts," by Clare Boothe Brokaw, which Liveright had sent me, and amused by the author's satirical hits at society, particularly in the chapter, "Communism Begins in the Home."

In the evening, to dine with Frank and Babs Reavis, and found Stephen Benet and his wife there, and Robert Nathan and the Charles Merrils; and we had some contract and gay conversation.

Friday, Dec. 4th: Read in Louis How's "Nursery Rhymes of New York City," vastly entertaining, and now reissue with clever drawings by Ilse Bischoff.

In the evening, Lady Vi Clement, and Mabs and Washburn Wright came to dine with me, and though we played contract for the smallest possible stakes, I held nothing but Yarboroughs, and lost, as the saying goes, my shirt. This determined me to give, hereafter, the amount of my losses, rather than my earnings at bridge, to the Unemployed.

Poet Passes

Saturday, Dec. 5th: Deeply grieved to read of the death of my old friend, Vachel Lindsay; for here was a poet, it seems to me, who brought us a new and vital force. I remembered how I had heard him chant "The Japanese Nightingale" from manuscript years ago; how I had heard him declaim "General William Booth Enters Into Heaven," and how struck I was with the originality of his poetry. And I can never forget a winter night when he walked with me down Fifth avenue for miles, waving his arms, forgetful of the traffic, reciting a new poem for me, to the amazement of the other pedestrians. He is a great loss to American literature, and will be sadly missed.

Read a lovely short story by a new English writer, Eric Linklater, in the Second Mercury Story Book called "The Dancers," as delicious a thing as I have recently come across, with beauty in every line of it, and a humorous twist at the end which is incomparable.

In the evening with Lady Vi to dinner and then to see "Cynara," an excellent play with Philip Merivale, Adrienne Allen and Phoebe Foster giving perfect performances; and a lady next to us was heard to say that she had never heard of Dowson's poem, and I wondered where she had been all these years.

SUNDAY, DEC. 6th: Hard at work all morning, and then for a long walk in the crisp weather. Phoebe Whitney, Margalo Gillmore and J. Denison came in for tea and contract in the late afternoon. In the evening to a dinner in honor of Alice Garrett, the wife of our Ambassador to Italy, given by the Charles E. Mitchells.

Another March by Idle Is Planned

Pittsburgh, Dec. 10 (AP)—Tentative plans for another march of the unemployed on Washington are being made, speakers at a meeting of homeward-bound marchers said.

The second journey to the capital would start on Feb. 4, 1932, it was said by representatives of the 400 men who spent the night here en route back from an unsuccessful trip to Washington.

GILLETTE BOARD PRAISED BY ALDRED

From the time he entered the affairs of the Gillette Safety Razor Co. as a director in 1917 he found his fellow directors men of sound judgment in business affairs and above reproach, John E. Adred declared today.

Aldred was chairman of the board of directors of the company in 1930, and was on the stand at the master's hearing in the Federal building today.

The hearing is before Judge William M. Prest, sitting as master, in the suit brought by minority stockholders.

Aldred occupied a chair as he testified in answer to questions of counsel relative to the business of the Gillette company.

"FINEST BOARD"

"I always felt that the Gillette company had one of the finest board of directors of any industrial company I know of," said Aldred.

Aldred testified that he was connected with a small trust company in 1808 and a Mr. Joyce came in and borrowed $10,000. He said Joyce later took him to a little machine shop and showed him the safety razor blade. In 1917, he said, after Joyce's death, he became interested in the concern.

In response to questions, Aldred said he learned an option was given to the late Col. William A. Gaston and Mr. Winslow of the firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. in the affairs of the Gillette Company and that he suggested to a Mr. Curran there was a question whether he himself might take advantage of the offer.

TOOK BACK $50,000.

He said he talked the matter of the option over with Col. Gaston relative to the price and the latter took back a check for $50,000 to enable him to proceed in the matter.

He said Joyce died, and it was after that, in 1917, he learned of the option.

He testified it was his firm's policy in owning stock in which he was interested to obtain a substantial interest looking toward the upbuilding of the concern. He said he looked for profits by buying stock and keeping it.

Fred E. Wiener, of counsel for defendants, read a letter into the records which showed that Massachusetts led with 1,362,000 shares and 6685 shareholders.

KEEP UP BUYING, SAYS EINSTEIN

New York, Dec. 10—Prof. Albert Einstein, scientist, offers a recipe for prosperity in the January issue of Cosmopolitan. Turning his thoughts from "relativity," Einstein says the cure for world depression lies in preventing the buying powers of the masses from sinking below a certain minimum point measured in merchandise value.

"This," Einstein says, "can be achieved in three ways. One is community control of supply and demand, so managed as to allow the individual freedom for public ownership, since this would be disadvantageous to production."

He suggests shortening the working week to prevent unemployment, and as a third measure fixing a minimum wage so the buying power of the worker would correspond to the amount of production.

This, asserts Einstein, would result in striking a balance between production and consumption without too much restriction of individual initiative.

Worcester Doctor's Arrow Kills Deer

Worcester, Dec. 10 (INS)—The soft twang of a cord, the whizz of a broadhead arrow and a deer dropped dead, the shaft piercing its heart.

That will be the way Dr. Harold K. Brigham, local archer, will recount his prowess as a "mighty hunter." He is first to bag a deer in this state with bow and arrow since that method was legalized last season.

Dr. Brigham killed his quarry in North Sandisfield today.

Woman Vanishes on Way to Work

Police are seeking Marion Pike, 67-year-old spinster, who has been missing since she left her home at 17 Grovenor rd. Jamaica Plain, yesterday morning, to go to work in a Boston law office.

She is described as 67 years, is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weights 145 pounds and has auburn hair, slightly gray. She wears glasses and is slightly lame. She wore a black hat, a black coat with black fur and a black dress.

Fifteen Led to Safety in Holyoke

Holyoke, Dec. 10 (AP)—Fifteen roomers on three upper floors of a High st. block were led to safety through smoke-filled hallways today, when fire did $5,000 damage to a specialty shop and cleaning concern on the first floor.

U. S. CLEANUP IN LAWRENCE IS PLANNED

This is the tenth of a series on conditions at Lawrence.

By THE MASKED REPORTER

(Copyright, 1931, by the Boston Evening American.)

The "Big Seven" are on the brink of disaster. Their power as overlords of the Lawrence rum trade is in the balance.

The federal government is laying the skids to send them sliding off their thrones.

A three-edged assault on their highly lucrative racketeering is planned.

Conspiracy charges loom, and in the background, padlock proceedings and prosecution for evasion of the income tax law.

The last method of attack will be invoked if the other siege guns fail to dislodge them.

Although it is the last choice of the authorities, it is the method most likely to be carried through to a finish.

It will mean branding the syndicate members as "public enemies," and prosecuting them for income tax evasion for want of sufficient tangible evidence of other crimes, as Al Capone was prosecuted in Chicago.

"PUBLIC ENEMIES"

This federal action will be based on the results of an official investigation, coupled with valuable information obtained from certain civic leaders.

The fact that a thoroughgoing federal probe had been completed recently came to my attention shortly after I arrived in Lawrence, and subsequent inquiry on my part revealed the nature of official plans.

If the rum ring leaders squeeze out of this predicament it will be short of a miracle, becase the government usually gets its men, once it has marked them.

The Lawrence matter, it must be understood, is entirely apart from the prohibition enforcement branch of officialdom. It is not being handled by that department. It is a case of the government against illicit profiteers, preying on the people and boldly challenging law and order.

Not only their liquor trade control, but their complete financial status was the subject of investigation by the United States undercover agents. Their huge real estate holdings have been checked, their bank accounts inspected, and under the income tax method of attack, they will be forced to prove, if they can, that the money in the bank accounts and the funds with which they purchased the property WERE NOT taxable revenue.

In the event that the authorities feel that it can be shown exactly where this stream of income came from, charges of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws will be the form of action.

GAMBLING RACKET

The federal probers found that three of the persons about whom their investigation centered had filed tax reports covering a small portion of their revenue.

Ascertaining this fact was the simplest part of their investigation. But to indicate to what ends the undercover agents went in the opposite direction, I may mention that they even learned of automobiles purchased by two of the booze barons through straw men and registered in New Hampshire, although the cars are generally to be found garaged in Methuen.

Professional gamblers who operate nearly every known game of chance on a big scale; petty racketeers, engaged in "chiseling" wherever they can; and musclemen"—all tools of the "Big Seven" —are allowed the privilege of practicing their various games in Lawrence as long as they remain subservient to the syndicate.

(The Masked Reporter will continue his exposure of conditions at Lawrence in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

FAITHFUL GIRL 'SEEN' IN LEAP FROM LINER

she had disappeared.

Her pale flesh was bruised and her organs were filled with drugs, and for months official investigators were torn between theories of suicide and murder.

Still remaining unanswered is the question of why she leaped into the sea in the early morning darkness.

But as recently disclosed by the Boston Evening American, the authorities place most credence in the theory that she had been hounded by blackmailers intent on using her to mulct a huge sum from a prominent Boston man, who allegedly despoiled her in childhood.

Finding of the eye-witness followed long investigation after receipt of mysterious information received by Dist. Atty. Elvin Edwards of Nassau County.

SAW HER LEAP

The eye-witness is a member of the crew of the liner, and he told his story behind locked doors in Edwards' office, the American learned.

"It was a couple of hours after we sailed at midnight on June 5," he said.

"The gayety of the sailing festivities was petering out.

"I was on deck when I saw through the darkness the figure of a girl approach the rail. I watched her, but suspected nothing, until she suddenly climbed the rail, poised an instant and then plunged into the sea.

"I was so horrified that I could not give the alarm for a few minutes. When I recovered, I knew nothing could be done, but I reported it to a superior."

Starr Faithful was not listed as a passenger on the vessel, and there was no way for the ship's officers to know who had jumped overboard.

She had evidently stowed away on the liner for the sailing festivities just as she had done on the Cunard liner Franconia a week before only to be put off, drunk and delirious, on a tug and returned to New York.

CLUE IS RUN DOWN

When the ship reached Europe, the body of Starr Faithful had been found, a murder investigation was in full progress, but there was nothing to indicate to the ship's officers that it was the Greenwich Village "flame girl" who leaped from their vessel.

Recently, Asst. Dist. Atty. Martin W. Littleton, Jr., of Nassau County and his superior, Elvin Edwards, received anonymous information which led them to make a thorough check of guards and other employes on piers along the North river.

The Boston Evening American learned that a guard at one pier was found who remembered seeing a girl of Starr Faithfull's description boarding the line in question late on the evening of June 5, the day she disappeared from home.

He recognized her because he had seen her brought ashore from the Franconia the week before, after she had been found illegally aboard that vessel. Starr had an infatuation for Dr. James G. Carr, ship's surgeon of the Franconia.

The information given the investigators by the guard caused Littleton to write to officials of the line, requesting their aid, and the result was the appearance at Mineola of the member of the crew, whose story the officials of the steamship company had long since begun to suspect might be a solution of the Starr Faithfull mystery.

British Admirals to Be Reduced to 3

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, announced today as a matter of economy that no more admirals of the fleet would be created and that vacancies would not be filled until incumbents had been reduced to three.

The title is little more than honorary, held by King George, Earl Beatty, Sir Osmond Brock, Sir Roger Keyes and Sir Henry Oliver, with Earl Jellicoe and Sir Charles Madden on the retired list.

Liner's Berth Too Small for Giant

New York, Dec. 10 (A P)—The liner Deutschland had to be remodeled a bit so that Jake Erlich, of El Paso, Tex., could go to Europe in comfort.

Erlich, known as the "Texas Giant," sailed with a circus group for London. He had to be measured for a berth.

He is 25, wears size 22 shoes and the carpenter said his height was eight feet and six inches.

Rubber Tire Train for U. S. Railroad

New York, Dec. 10 (INS)—A train coach fitted out with rubber tires capable of attaining a speed of 85 miles an hour without causing passengers any discomfort will arrive in the United States soon, Jules Hauvette-Michelin, vice-president of a tire company, here today from France, said.

Ex-Policeman Injured

Lawrence, Dec. 10—Howard I. White, 68, retired 10 years ago from the police department, suffered a fractured leg today when he fell on the ice at Cross st. and Broadway.

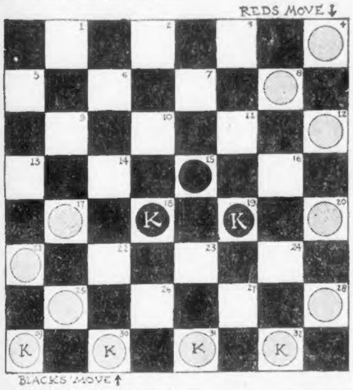
"STUDENT PRINCE" IS BOOST FOR CHORUS MEN

THE VOICE OF Broadway

By Louis Sobol

With the Aid of Lenz!

Now here you'll see a pretty chart drawn by Artist Paul Frehm. I don't go in much for pictures in this column but so many letters from skeptics have reached me, wagering me that Sidney Lenz, the bridge expert, can't beat an opponent in checkers, spotting him the whole 12 and retaining only three—and do it within seventeen moves. Mr. Lenz has given me permission to expose the trick. Study the chart below. And now let's go ahead and play the game.



I will take the three blacks—you have the 12 reds. You will notice that I have a king in box 18 and one in 19 and a man in 15. It's my move. I shove my king from 19 to 24. You take it with your man in 20. I move my king in 18 to 22. You take it with your man in 17. That leaves me only my lone man in 15. I move it gradually towards box 1, where I am kinged. You have no other alternative than to move your men in 12, 8 and 4 up toward king row. I keep hovering between boxes 1 and 5 until your three men just mentioned have reached boxes 24, 23 and 22—or if you care to move differently perhaps you will find yourself lodged in box 20. You will find then that you can't make another move—and the game is mine. Hey, hey!

THE GAL MADE GOOD

As his eyes wandered dreamily to the picture gallery of stars decorating the walls of his Eltinge Theater, Al Woods suddenly pointed a stubby finger toward an aesthetic looking lass. "Now look at her, f'r instance, sweetheart. A few years ago I dropped in to see a play in Long Branch, N. J. I liked it. I said to the producer, I'll give you ten grand for half of it. He said no, he'd get along with it himself. A few weeks later I saw the play again. He'd changed the leading lady. Business was awful. 'You still want to buy in?' he asked. 'Sure,' I said. 'But get that girl back that was in the lead. The piece ain't worth a damn without her.' 'You're crazy,' he said, 'I had to let her go. But it's your money—and if you want her, it's okay with me.' So he got her on the phone and she came a running. Two weeks later we opened in New York. The play was a smash hit. Maybe you remember it? 'Tarnish.'"

"And who," I asked, "was the leading lady and how did she make out?"

Woods grinned. "Oh," he murmured, "her name was Ann Harding—and she did pretty well!"

HIS ERROR!

The same Al Woods in the same office pointed to another picture. "Now take that kid. I was giving him $250 a week. So he comes in breathless one day and he says 'Al, what do you know, United Artists sent for me. They wanta give me $750 a week for eight weeks. Gee, Al, this is my big chance. You gotta let me go. I don't care if you keep the other $400 they're giving me—just let me go.' I sez, 'sweetheart, I wouldn't stand in your way—but I got you under contract—so I'm gonna handle this. I'm gonna get you more money.' He said, 'Gee, Al, you'll only spoil it. Don't spoil it. Let me go.' But I told him to go home. Then I got on the phone and I called United Artists and I said, 'this fellow's under contract to me. What do you mean $750 a week. Hell, I'm paying him that. You want him? Okay, sweetheart, you pay him $1500 a week and transportation for him and his wife and baby and maid to the Coast and you can have him.' United Artists said, 'Sure. That's all right.' Well, the kid came dashing in the next day. 'How did you make out, Al?' he asked. 'Not so good, sweetheart,' I told him. 'I made a big mistake.' His face fell down to here. 'Gee, what did I tell you? You shoulda let me go like I wanted to.' 'Yep,' I said, 'I made a mistake. I shoulda asked for $2000 a week—instead of $1500.' And then I told him. That fellow was Chester Morris—and they tell me he's still doing allright in the pictures."

McHugh Wrote Theme Song

Another local boy who has chalked up a success is Jimmy McHugh, whose "Cuban Love Song" is featured in the picture of that title starring Lawrence Tibbett now at Loew's State. Starting back in the days when he began his career here, McHugh has turned out tunes that have been whistled from coast to coast. They started with "Dardanella," and continued with "Hinky-Dinky Parlez-vous," "Just a Girl That Men Forget," "It's a Man Every Time," "Blue Again," "Sunny Side of the Street," and "Exactly Like You." McHugh wrote for the score of Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds" and "Rhapsody in Black."

Jimmy McHugh

"Charles and Mary" for Harvard Dramatic Club

"Charles and Mary," by Joan Temple, will be the fall production of the Harvard Dramatic Club. Although never before produced in this country, the play was presented in England, where it enjoyed a very successful run at the Everyman's Theater in Hampstead.

G. E. Massey, '15, a member of the Dramatic Club, will direct this play, the opening performance of which will be at Brattle Hall, Cambridge, on Wednesday, Dec. 16.

Writers Added

Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer has added Stafford Dickens and Russell Medcraft to its roster of writers. Dickens and Medcraft will be called upon to write original stories for production during the 1931-1932 season.

Stage Who's Who

Boston playgoers always welcome the news that Richard Whorf, veteran in experience with the Copley-Plaza, will appear in another clever character role.

Richard Whorf

In "Inspector Kennedy," which opens at the Copley next Monday evening, Whorf once again has the role of an aged and, in this case, wicked old gentleman. The young actor himself is a lad of 26, but as those who will recall his striking characterization last season of "Monkey Henderson," well know so skilful and meticulous an artist as Whorf can create old age with his make-up box, his voice, his walk and his gesture. Once more in "Inspector Kennedy" he will hover on the brink of senility, and needless to say, his performance is anticipated with a great deal of interest.

As everybody must have learned Whorf hails from the nearby town of Winthrop, where his family have been residents for many years. His days are busy ones. But just at present there's a new and added interest due to the recent arrival of young Peter Whorf, who although he has yet to celebrate his first birthday, is according to his proud Dad, already displaying marked histrionic talent.

Laurel's Child

Lois Laurel, young daughter of Stan Laurel, was visiting the Hal Roach studios recently. In the star's dressing room she was asked her name by one of the writers. Her reply was:

"Lois Laurel."

"And what's your middle name?" she was asked.

"Lois Laurel Hardy," was the answer.

Singers Now in Demand Again

By HARRIS MORGAN

The chorus man, most abject, ordinarily, of the picas of the stage, is no longer a submerged fraction, scorned of scene shifters, despised of chorus girls, and merely tolerated by directors. Stage-hands now step aside for him instead of on him; chorus girls flatter instead of flout him, and directors speak kind words to him and flutter contracts before his eyes.

* * *

He is no longer derided for spending his leisure hours offstage in knitting or crocheting; no more is he the butt of jibes. In short, he has become a personage instead of a "prop"; an artist in place of a piece of animated scenery. For "The Student Prince" and "Marching By" have restored him to the place of honor and commensurate stipend he once held as a singer of more than average merit. The male chorus of "The Student Prince," which is at the Shubert, is one of the chief features of it's extraordinary success, and has revived memories of the days when chorus men, as well as women, did more than make faces and shake their underpinning at audiences.

Time was when college glee club singers, members of Maennerchor and Saengerbund, and students of voice culture generally, were included in the male choruses of comic operas and operettas such as those that used to make the New York Casino famous.

A majority of musical show producers, in fact, came to look on the chorus man as excess baggage and many of them dispensed with his services entirely.

And then along came the revival of "The Student Prince," together with the success of operettas of its type—and once again the market for chorus men has jumped above par. The demand actually exceeded the supply, and could not be met.

Exeter Theater

Greta Garbo in "Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise," and William Powell in "The Road to Singapore" are the attractions at the Exeter for the remainder of the week.

BABY STAR HOLDS SPOTLIGHT IN NEXT WEEK'S FILM FARE

Alison Loyd and Chester Morris pictured in a scene from "The Corsair," which comes to the Loew's State screen tomorrow. It was directed by Roland West.

Richard Spiro is in "His Woman" at Met tomorrow.

Colin Clive and Dwight Frye in "Frankenstein," which has been held over at RKO Keith's for a third week.

Gayety Theater

At the Gayety today there is a new show. The feature pictures, "Street Scene," with Sylvia Sidney, Estelle Taylor and William Collier, Jr., and "Daddy Long Legs," with Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor. J. Riseman and his band are an added attraction.

Joel McCrea in Cast of 'The Bird of Paradise' With Delores Del Rio

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Los Angeles, Dec. 10—As soon as Dolores Del Rio, exotic Mexican beauty, calms down from her ordeal in the courtroom, she will confer with King Vidor on "The Bird of Paradise." She will also rehearse scenes with Joel McCrea who was yesterday chosen as her leading man.

Louella O Parsons

Dolores is to have the chance [illegible] said on the witness stand she never had as Edwin Carewe's star when she plays the stellar role in the fascinating "Bird of Paradise."

There is more than a mere possibility that King Vidor will take his company to Honolulu. The scenes in "Bird of Paradise" are laid there and nothing could equal that Hawaiian scenery as a background.

I have often said that Bill Shakespeare must have had the motion picture industry in mind when he wrote that "imitation is the sincerest flattery." I just knew we'd have four or five pictures on the order of "The Champ." I don't mind if they are as good as "The Champ," but oh dear me, I don't think any of us want any bad imitations of this delightful picture. Mickey McGuire is to be starred in a comedy drama called "Shandy" by Olga Printzlau, produced by John Klein and directed by Dick Thorpe.

• • •

We are always curious to know when one is close to the brink [illegible] what their reactions are. I visited Tom Mix at the hospital a few days ago and he told me he never for a moment thought that he would die. "I knew I'd live," he said. "I am strong and this is the first time I have ever had a serious illness."

• • •

"If" is a mighty big word in the picture business and elsewhere. [illegible] Jean Hersholt's option [illegible] taken up by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer he will accept an offer [illegible] New York called [illegible] Most actors would much rather be in the movies but a stage engagement [illegible] speaking of the stage [illegible] under contract [illegible] will play the heavy in "Silent Witness."

TWO LITTLE STORIES OF GOOD TIMES AND BAD

By GILBERT SELDES

PERHAPS THESE TWO little stories have no connection, one with the other; I heard them one evening, and they seemed to me to hang together on the rather slender thread of the quirks of nature's masterpiece—the human mind. The first incident occurred at a meeting of one of the many committees raising money for the unemployed. In the course of a moving address, the chairman spoke of the hundreds of young women, trained as secretaries and stenographers, who could not get work and who would be happy in the prospect of fifteen dollars a week, although how they would live on fifteen a week no one knew. At the end of the meeting a gentleman stayed behind and told the chairman that the appeal had given him an idea. If there were so many girls available at fifteen dollars a week, he was going to cut down the salaries of all the girls to whom he was paying thirty or forty, and give the difference to charity.

Furs for Profit

Season, as Shakespeare puts it, your admiration for a while and consider the pendant to this jewel. A fur coat was lost and the furrier put in a claim for $2500 to the insurance company. The appraiser wished, naturally, to pay not the selling price, but the cost of the coat and made genteel inquiries. Finally he asked, "How much did the coat actually cost?" and the furrier replied "$2250." The investigator tried to keep a straight face, but the furrier was alert. "I know what you're thinking," he went on. "But in good times I was selling a coat that cost me $2000 for $11,000."

Combine Them

I beg you to note that these are totally separate occurrences, but that they might well have happened in the same business household. Just as the mentality of the charitable man in the first story seems muddled, the commercial instinct of the furrier seems clear. Combine the two and you will have a man who made a 500 per cent mark up in the days of prosperity (and perhaps a 300 per cent profit), and now that his mark up is down to 10 per cent (with, say, only five per cent profit) is willing to let his employees contribute not to their own charities, but to his. The muddled center of the muddle is that both look perfectly correct. The $11,000 fur coat represented boom time; the cut in salaries represents a deflation which some economists insist upon, and, at best, would mean that the employer, instead of spending $800 on the salaries of twenty girls at $40 a week, would spend $900 a week on the salaries of thirty girls at $30. He would have his four-day week, the employed would share with the unemployed, and his additional outlay would be $100 weekly, for which he would have the consolation of knowing that he was giving work to ten more people.

I call that a muddle. Especially when I think of the 500 per cent mark up of three years ago.

One Thing Remains

With everything changing, (usually for the worse) it is good to find one thing which does not change—the peremptory tone of the Anti-Saloon League. It would be rather pathetic to hear its leaders confess that a vote to reconsider will be taken as a vote against prohibition, but the tone of command forbids all pathos. Our Congressmen are being ordered around just as they were in the good old pre-panic days—ordered and threatened. They must not resubmit the question of prohibition to the people, because if they do the Anti-Saloon League will defeat them at the next election. And we know what a job is, these days. A friend of mine has summed it up in a neat phrase—there are no bad jobs. Not even a Congressman's.

The Bad Old Rich

I am particularly pleased by the attack on "wet millionaires" launched from the headquarters of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy. If anything written above seems to indicate an unfriendly attitude toward the rich, I wish it to be taken in the Pickwickian sense or I will withdraw it altogether. When the National Prohibition Board Strategy attacks the rich and "society women" for inciting "revolt against our sacred amendment, I feel myself back in the 1920's, in the days when merely to be seen on Park Avenue gave one a sense of wealth and well being.

Only I suspect that something's wrong. I seemed to remember that the rich contributed steadily to the cause of prohibition; and to recall that the rich aren't nearly as rich as they were. Not rich enough, let us say, to finance the repeal of the amendment.

Russia Lags

The correspondents in Moscow needn't think that they are going to break our hearts with the news that the Five-Year Plan is having trouble. The latest report is that the 35 per cent increase will not be achieved; at best, Russia will produce only 25 per cent more this year than in 1930, and in 1930 it produced only 25 per cent more than in 1929. Somebody ought to send word to Moscow that the world is in trouble and production is 50 per cent below, not 25 per cent above. Otherwise the poor, ignorant, benighted, isolated Russians will get completely out of step with the rest of us.

France Joins Up

The French, on the other hand, are catching up. Since they started throwing golden bricks at the heads of other nations, they have lagged behind the world in the matter of unemployment. One would read that in all of France sixty thousand people were out of work, which was "normal." And then, suddenly, the French Government is appropriating a largish sum of good gold francs for the unemployed. So our sister republic swings into line and proves, without the exception which is supposed to prove everything, that's all for the best in the most intelligently run economy ever practised on the face of the earth. Which such solidarity, we ought all to be proud of ourselves.

POLITICS—Notes and Gossip About People You Know

RECEIVES MEMBERSHIP

Whitfield Tuck, of Winchester, president of the National Franklin D. Roosevelt League for President, has received a membership card from Congressman Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida. The daughter of the "Great Commoner" also sent a cordial letter with the card.

BACON RECOVERING

President Gaspar G. Bacon, of the Senate, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, is recovering from a heavy cold which confined him to his home for several days.

CLOTHING FOR NEEDY

William M. Robinson, parole officer in the State Department of Correction, is again collecting clothing this year for distribution to the families of paroled prisoners in Middlesex County. The employes of the office are also contributing some cash which will be used for Christmas purposes for these unfortunate families.

ENGAGEMENT SHOWER

Miss Hazel Sullivan of the supply department was given a gold shower in the recreation room on the third floor of City Hall Annex last night by a group of nearly 100 young women employed by the city. After being congratulated upon her approaching marriage to Lieut. James McDonough, U. S. Navy aviator, which takes place during the Christmas holidays, Miss Sullivan attended an entertainment staged in her honor.

BOLTON BETTER

Fred E. Bolton, secretary to the board of city assessors, who has been on the sick list for the past two weeks, was reported slightly improved today.

PLAYS TROMBONE

"Tom" O'Brien, of the city building department, is an internationally famous trombonist. In addition to playing in all sections of the United States, he has also been a member of bands and orchestras in France, England and Italy.

ANDERSON SPEAKER

"Bill" Anderson, assistant secretary to Mayor Curley, who is also senior vice commander-in-chief of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will be guest of honor and principal speaker tonight at a dinner of the Kearsarge Naval Veterans Association in their headquarters in Washington st., South End.

COAKLEY TRANSFERRED

"Jerry" Coakley, of the assessing department, has been transferred to Mayor Curley's office for temporary service because of the pressure of business there.

"HOW good is it?" Brother, you put your finger right on it!

You want a cigarette that's milder. You want a cigarette that tastes better. You want a pure cigarette. And above all, you want cigarettes that satisfy.

Now when you say that, you're talking Chesterfield's language—none other!

• • •

IT STARTS with fine tobacco. Chesterfield buyers are experts in the art of judging quality leaf. They can spot the finest tobacco in any country . . . and they won't take anything else.

You'll find the same painstaking care . . . the same skillful handling . . . in the curing, the blending, and the cross-blending.

Blended and cross-blended . . . that's Chesterfield! And what a difference it makes in the way it smokes and tastes!

• • •

FROM field to package, Chesterfields are protected by the strictest purity standards; the most modern sanitary manufacturing methods.

They're rolled in the finest, whitest paper . . . that burns without taste or odor. Wrapped in a clean, attractive package . . . neat, fresh-looking; moisture-tight . . . but easy to open.

And delivered as fast as they're made . . . from 3 big factories . . . to every cigarette counter in the land.

• • •

THAT'S the story of why Chesterfields satisfy. That's the reason they're milder . . . that's why they taste better. Light up . . . and answer your own question!

"No question about it - They really Satisfy"

THIS IS LIFE

'BOSSY,' RUDY, MOSES, THERE'S A LESSON IN EVERY BIG FLOP

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

UNEASY LIES THE HEAD that wears the crown!

Three items in a day's news testify sadly to the impermanence of human power and glory. Mr. Gillis of Newburyport is roughly and satisfyingly spanked by his electorate, barely tieing his own ward and losing all the others. And to whom? To a silk stocking, a capitalist, a millionaire, one of the High st. crowd, representative of everything that the Democracy distrusts.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

Mr. Moses, although at this moment of writing the issue is doubtful, seems most likely to lose his long established job as president pro-tempore of the Senate. The Democrats, as a matter of course, seek to oust him. But this time they are aided by Mr. Moses' fellow-Republicans, the "wild asses of the desert," the farm bloc crowd.

And worse and more of it, the Rudy Vallee Club in New York is deserting him. The 18-year-old stenographer, who founded and held together that curious organization of 5000 girls pledged to the worship of the Westport Wonder, has soured on him. He talks too much about himself, the girls insist. They are turning in droves to the new star in the ascendant, Bing Crosby. Their valleedictory is "Ave atque Vallee" in the right old Roman fashion.

* * *

All this would not have surprised old King Solomon. He knew the world and the ways of men, and a brief search in his Proverbs would furnish us plenty of pithy sayings anent the fickleness of man (and of woman), the briefness of glory, the transitory quality of fame, and the cussedness of human nature.

In the case of the boy marvel with the megaphone the tragedy lies in his being rejected for what he has been encouraged to do. What was all this ballyhoo about Rudy during the past few years, if not an open and direct encouragement to him to exploit his personality to the limit? Radio broadcasting, movie pictures, personal appearances, signed articles, marriage and death—all were but so many excuses for the public to devour eagerly more and more intimate and personal matter about the Yale boy who made good without going into the bond business.

He might very well be excused for thinking that the public did expect him to talk about himself. Unfortunately, his public was feminine. "Varium et mutabile semper," said Virgil, "woman is a variable and changeful thing," adding insult to injury by putting the noun in the neuter. "Donna e mobile" sang the librettist of Rigoletto. All meaning the same truth that the sex which once wore the most sane and intelligent kind of clothing ever designed in modern times, and then went back meekly to silly medieval period clothes that have no relation to modern conditions, could not be expected to remain faithful to even the most fascinating crooner. So there is a detour around Rue de Vallee.

More wholesome and more to be expected was the stab in the back Mr. Gillis received from his own faithful. It is obvious that he was riding for a fall. It cannot be said that he deteriorated in office.

Rough-Shod Tactics Taboo

So far as the readers of the public prints could tell, he was no different in these latter days than he was four years ago when he attracted the attention of the state to his filling station, cutting down trees, decorating his premises with unmentionable ceramics, and generally playing the part of Ajax in the thunder storm. Just the same free-spoken, free-wheeling symbol of the Jacksonian Democracy as he is today.

True, power may have gone a little to his head. The constitutional limitations of the mayor's office meant nothing to him. He would hire and fire as he pleased. The police and the board of aldermen and the school superintendent were his personal henchmen, regardless of the laws under which they held office. Various experiences with the judiciary hardly damped his sense of what a mayor who represented the plain pee-pul ought to be like.

And now the plain people, his own plain people, have let him down—not easily. He has learned what other Jacksonian Democrats have learned to their sorrow and surprise. The people do prefer, it is true, one of them to govern them, but they want that one to be as near like one of the former ruling class as is possible. They want good manners, decent speech, official dignity, a scrupulous regard for appearances, a decent respect for the opinions of mankind. It may take them a little while to learn that this is what they want, but eventually they are sure.

It is no accident that Mr. Bacon and Mr. Saltonstall preside over their respective branches of the Great and General Court. The people do really like to use gentlemen when they are available—and when they are not rubber stamps. But four years of Mr. Gillis as mayor have proved conclusively to the people of Newburyport that athough the plain and unimproved man may be dear to God and his mother, he was never intended to represent the people in public office.

A Moses Come to Judgment

In that lies the only hope for democracy, that it does yearn dimly to be represented by individuals superior to the mass. The tragedy is that the democracy seems to be greatly at a loss how to secure them.

The moral of Senator Moses is still a different moral. Never speak your mind. Never stand firm on a rock bottom of principle and prejudice, which, according to the great Edmund Burke, is the only safe guide to conduct. Never say pungently and in public what thousands of the people you represent are thinking bitterly in private. The goblins—the farm bloc—will get you if you don't watch out!

Whisper and pull wires, like the late Murray Crane, and you will be a great man. Lie low and say nothing, like Br'er Fox and Mr. Coolidge, and you will be the white hope of the depression. Leap agilely from position to position, like the chamois and Senator Borah, and all the half-baked liberals will idolize you. Be an "easy boss" like Tom Platt and get away with it. But don't say what you think. Tom Reed used to speak out and he missed the presidency. Moses does it all the time and it looks as if he will lose his scalp.

There was another man like Moses in politics once, all brains and principle and courage and tactlessness. His name was John Quincy Adams. The Jackson mob scalped him, too, in 1827. Then he came back to one of the most distinguished careers ever served in the House of Representatives. Perhaps Moses is not quite dead politically. We hope not. For he is the only rallying point for a New England congressional delegation that, if they would only stand implacably together, could go far to impress New England principles on an anarchic Congress.

Bankruptcy Ring Dodges U. S. Court Rule

Poison Pen Writer May Be Woman

MISS ALICE RICE

The author of poison pen letters sent to Alice Rice, 19, Malden Sunday school teacher, may be a man or a woman.

The correspondence was characterized as the worst ever brought to the postal bureau, as Park D. Colvin, chief postoffice inspector, went to work on it today. Colvin said the writing was of such a character that it might be either a woman's or a man's.

He said there was no evidence regarding the identity of the author who has been addressing the letters to Miss Rice at her home in Davis st., Malden.

The latest letter was received yesterday by Miss Rice, who is a Boston stenographer and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Rice. Like all the others, it was turned over to the federal authorities.

Because of stories circulated that the letters had resulted in the breaking up of her romance with a Revere World War veteran with whom she had formerly been friendly, Miss Rice issued a statement in which she denied that there ever was any romance or that the letters had broken it up.

TAKEN ILL, HIS CASH VANISHES

Charles Croswell's $800 vanished today somewhere in Washington st., downtown, he told police, and police began an investigation to discover how the money disappeared during a momentary sick spell.

According to Croswell's story, he had taken the $800 from a trunk in his Warrenton st. room and was walking in Washington st., between Court and State sts., when he became ill.

To the best of his recollection, he said, no one came to his aid, but when he recovered he found his $800 roll was gone.

He had with him also a bankbook showing deposits totalling $520 in a Park sq. bank.

Croswell said that until six months ago, when he was compelled to take a leave of absence because of his health, he was a salesman in Berlin, N. H.

MAN IN POLICE SUIT ADMITS HE ACCOSTED GIRL

Wax Testifies That He Got $1000 in Previous Trial Against Officer

Admission that he once collected $1000 in a suit against a policeman, that he had been arrested for allegedly accosting a girl and had been convicted 11 times for traffic law violations, was drawn today in Middlesex Superior Court from Benjamin Wax of Bernard st., Dorchester.

Wax, an insurance agent, was testifying in support of [illegible] filed by him and Miss [illegible] Miller, 30, of Hamilton rd., Brookline, against the town of Weston, Police Chief J. Sumner Viles and Patrolman Harlan Berry, both of Weston.

The suits allege false arrest while Wax and the girl were in a [illegible] in [illegible], Weston, on the night of Oct. 16, 1928.

ACCOSTER, NOT BREAKER

Under cross-examination by former Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex County, counsel for the Weston officers and the town of Weston, Wax admitted that in 1926 he had recovered $1000 damages from Patrolman Thomas M[illegible] in Dedham.

At that time, he said, he was arrested as a suspicious person. In the same year he was arrested, he admitted, on a charge of accosting Mrs. Anna Sennett of Ziegler st., Roxbury.

"Do you recall," Atty. Bushnell asked, "being arrested in Roxbury on a warrant charging you with accosting Mrs. Anna Sennett and breaking a door?"

"For accosting, yes, but I didn't break the door," Wax replied.

DENIES "BAITING" POLICE

Wax also admitted he had been found guilty and placed on probation.

Q.—Did you meet Mrs. Sennett in connection with your insurance collections? A.—No, outside of that.

Wax denied in answer to other questions that since his victory in the Dedham suit he had been looking for a chance to sue another policeman.

Q. At the time of your arrest in Weston, did you say that the town of Weston would pay plenty for this? A.—No.

Q. Miss Miller, your companion has testified that she did not want any money, that she only wants to punish the officers. Is your purpose in bringing the suit to punish the officers? A. No.

Q. Do you want money out of it? A. I wouldn't refuse it. I want redress.

IN ONE SEAT? NO!

Q. This place where you parked with Miss Miller in Ash st., Weston, is a dark road in a heavily wooded section, isn't it? A. Yes.

Q. Both you and she were sitting in the [illegible] front seat, weren't you? A. No.

Q. Did you try to hide in under the wheel when an officer pointed a flash at you? A. No.

Q. You were asked at the Waltham police station to bail the girl out and take her home, weren't you? A. Yes.

Q.—And despite that you didn't bail her until two hours afterward, although you had $150 in your pocket? A. The money belonged to the insurance company. I didn't feel that I could use it.

The defense case opened shortly after noon with Chief Viles as the first witness. He testified that he was a sergeant at the time of the arrests, and he detailed incidents he said occurred when he and Patrolman Berry looked into the car.

BEFORE ROMANCE ENDED

Kenneth Harlan and his third wife, the former Doris Hilda Booth of Somerville, were happy when this photo was made. Today Harlan is filing suit for divorce in Reno.

INJURIES, FIRE AS TRUCKS MEET

[illegible] the [illegible] way at Putnam ave. and [illegible] st., Cambridge, today, with spectacular results.

One truck was overturned, leaking gasoline ignited over 30 yards of the street, a load of furniture was damaged to the extent of $1500 and a man and a woman were slightly injured.

REVERE BANKER IS ACCUSED

Formal complaint against an officer in the closed Revere [illegible] Co. was made [illegible] by Miss Ann[illegible] Signore of [illegible], one of a family of [illegible].

Her complaint [illegible] deposited $1,935 in the bank on the solicitation of the bank officials [illegible] days before the bank closed its doors, followed a similar complaint made yesterday by her to Commissioner Arthur Guy.

According to the girl, she was assured by the bank officials that her money would be well protected. He solicited her deposit, she claimed.

The girl revealed today that she had drawn, prior to the bank closing, all but $1800.

Her formal charge to the district attorney today followed a conference between her counsel, [illegible] Bernstein, and John W. [illegible], the bank commissioner's agent.

HARLAN SEEKS RENO DIVORCE

Suit for divorce from his third wife, the former Doris Hilda Booth of Somerville, is to be filed at Reno today by Kenneth Harlan, according to a statement made by the film star's attorney.

Although counsel for the third Mrs. Harlan has declared that the Somerville beauty would not contest the suit, advices from New York [illegible]

She and her mother, Mrs. [illegible] New York and have been for two weeks.

Harlan and the Somerville beauty were married in Hollywood in May, 1930, after the film star was divorced by his second wife, Marie Prevost. The bride remained on the coast for five weeks and then returned to her Somerville home.

There were rumors at that time of separation but these were denied by the couple. Last January [illegible] separated.

At that time the Somerville [illegible] return to New York [illegible] McClure and [illegible]

Before his marriage to the Somerville girl, Harlan had been married to Miss Prevost and [illegible]

Autoist Escapes as Car Skids Into Pond

A [illegible] skid on icy roads ended in an icy bath today for James A. Barrance, 35, of Menlo ave., Lynn. Barrance, draftsman in a Boston office, was driving by Birch pond on the way to work when his sedan skidded. It plunged into eight feet of water.

Breaking a window, Barrance saved himself and ran to a nearby house to dry out.

TRADE AGENCY ORGANIZED AS BLIND

Welsch to Fight Ban on Practice of Circularizing Creditors

While Atty. F. D[illegible] Welsch today prepared to appeal the decision of Federal Judge James A. Lowell, banning solicitation of bankruptcy creditors, members of the Boston bankruptcy ring were planning methods of evading the ruling, the Boston Evening American learned.

[illegible] work on other lines designed to continue their enrichment through the misfortune of others, it was revealed.

DUMMY AGENCY

It was learned that one lawyer [illegible] had established an office [illegible] trade organization [illegible] different address from that of his law office.

Undismayed by the setback he received in federal court, Atty. Welsch plans to take his case to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and if necessary to the U. S. Supreme Court, it was learned.

Atty. Welsch had petitioned the court for a review of the order of Bankruptcy Referee R. Loring Young, rejecting him as a trustee in the Conrad Crocker bankruptcy case on the ground he solicited creditors.

PREVENTS RAILROADING

The lawyer argued that sending the circular letter to creditors was not solicitation in the generally accepted sense. He expressed the opinion that under certain circumstances such a practice is proper in that it prevents railroading.

Among the members of the bankruptcy ring, who have grown rich through monopolizing bankruptcy

The others injured were: Ferno Petroni, of Skinner st., driver; Stephen Ranmse., Lawrence st.; Roscoe Ascinase, Lawrence st.; Jasper Suis, Grove st.; Alexander Malatino, Grove st.

Ken Begs Lily Lou to Meet Parents

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Lily Lou Lansing, youngest of a large family, all of whom have sacrificed to give her singing lessons, comes to live in Oakland. She boards with her married sister May and her husband Raymond and works in an office in San Francisco. After leaving the ferryboat one morning she meets Ken Sargent, whom she used to know in Woodlake, where his family had a summer cottage. She becomes interested in this son of a millionaire shipowner, who tells her he loves her, but who has not yet asked her to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

LILY LOU stopped her exercises in the middle. Came back to the dining room. Both Raymond and May looked up inquiringly. It wasn't like Lily Lou to stop in the midst of her work.

"I'm too tired," she said, [illegible] dropping into the nearest chair.

"Ankle bothering you?" May was solicitous at once. Even Raymond was sympathetic. "You better get to bed, and don't try to do anything tonight."

But she couldn't go to bed! He might want to come over or to take her out riding.

The telephone rang.

Raymond heaved himself from his armchair. "I'll go!"

"I think it's Leta. She was going to call me back." [illegible] for the telephone [illegible] Lily Lou [illegible]

And it was [illegible] [illegible] Want to go for a [illegible] minute."

GOES FOR RIDE

Lily Lou put down the receiver a different girl. "I'm going out for a little while."

"I thought you were going to bed."

"No, I didn't say."

"You said you were too tired to practice."

"I know—that's why I'm going for the ride."

When the horn had honked outside and Lily Lou had dashed down the steps for all the world as though there was nothing the matter with her ankle, Raymond said, "I thought that was all over!"

"So did I," May said. She wished she had peeked out the window. She would have liked to get a good look at the Sargent boy and his green car, but she wouldn't give Raymond that much satisfaction. She felt hurt and disappointed. Last night Lily Lou seemed so happy, so ready to settle down to work after her long rest. Now she was gadding, the very first day.

"Lily Lou is a fool to go around with a fellow like that. He won't marry her [illegible] ring on her finger [illegible]."

"You mind your own business!" her big brother told her.

HAPPY TOGETHER

They were so happy to be together again. So thrilled to be alone, so full of wondering, gentle dreams. He drove with one hand, put his arm around her. For a moment Lily Lou sat up stiffly. She had her opinion of girls who drove around with their heads on a man's shoulder, but it was quite dark. Besides, this was different.

She said, half laughing, all in earnest, "Then, we're so close together, and so far apart. I mean, you don't come in to my house and I don't go to your's—"

There was an instant's awkward pause. "Want to make a call on the family?"

"No! Oh, dear no—I didn't mean that—"

"We can. Would you like to?"

"No. I just meant it seemed sort of funny. You know—you and your home, and me, and mine, and you honking outside for me, and us riding around—"

CASE NO. 31

I'm a father of five small children and I'm to be evicted from my home Tuesday. I have been to court and have been told to get out. I have no money to move to any other place. I work for the city of Somerville. They have no money and I get paid in grocery orders. Lights are going to be shut off.

And I would like to have you help us to get a roof over our heads. As for Christmas I don't dare mention it, for there will be no Christmas for us. If my poor kids get a roof over their heads between now and Tuesday I will count that a very good deed. We will have to let Christmas go by. Please let me know how soon you can help or we will be out. Hoping you hear our call for a roof to put over our heads. Remember goodfellows you have but little time if you can help us.

I was a goodfellow for the past few years myself. I was an expressman and had to give up my business on account of depression. I went broke. Hoping to hear from you. If I don't, good fellow, I don't know where I will be.

This man lives in Somerville. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 31.

CASE NO. 35

I hope you will remember us this Christmas as you were very kind to us last Christmas. I being out of work and my wife having a new baby makes it pretty tough with three more young ones to provide for. We have no gas or electricity and I am unable to buy clothing for my children so that they may go to school regular as they should. Thanksgiving for our dinner we had bread and tea. Thank God for that.

You don't imagine how a father feels on a day like that when his children sit down for bread and tea for dinner and they tell him what a fine dinner their friends have. I hope you will help to make them happy this year as you did last year and my children would come in one by one and say what this family had got for their children and I did not know where I could get 10 cents for a loaf of bread.

I want to tell you I never shall forget when your driver knocked on my door and brought sunshine where there was sorrow. God knows we were certainly a changed family and we wish to thank you and still hope you will be good to us this year. There are three boys and one girl.

This father lives in Roxbury. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 35.

CASE NO. 36

I am writing to let you know that we are in need. Not long ago my mother took a shock and it affected her speech and her arms are kind of paralyzed. The doctor said we have to be very careful or she will take another.

The main thing is that she mustn't worry and of course, if you don't help us this Christmas it will probably make her worse if she doesn't see us having a good dinner. The children are all quite young. The oldest one that was working is sick too.

So you see, dear Boston American, if you don't help us, we will be very disappointed and I'm sure we wouldn't have much to eat then. So please don't forget us. We had a terrible Thanksgiving.

This girl lives in Boston. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 36.

CASE NO. 37

I am writing to ask you if you would please remember me on Christmas, as I will not have anything for Christmas as my husband is not working. He has just been put away. The only way I could get aid is from the city and then they only give me $7 a week and now they say they won't help me as too many are getting aid now. They never gave me any help this week.

The children have gone to bed for three nights with only rice flakes to eat. I work when I can for [illegible] cents an hour, house work and it is hard work also. I have three children, boys 6 and 2 and a little girl 17 months. I wish you could please send me some shoes, sizes 3 and 5, as the two little ones have no shoes to wear. He has not many suits to wear.

The boy 6 years old goes to school. He has no overcoat to wear and no rubbers or overshoes. He takes an 8 shoe and he is wearing 9½ shoes I had given to me. It is pretty hard for me to get along. I wish you will remember me and the children. Thanking you very much.

This mother lives in Chelsea. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 37.

CASE NO. 38

I am writing you a few lines to let you know that we are very poor and my mother can't afford to buy us some clothes and we have no shoes or other clothes. So, Dear Sir, we are asking and begging for a Christmas basket because last year we didn't receive any, so my sisters and brothers were crying and said that the Santa Claus forgot us on Christmas Day.

My father isn't working 2½ years now, and I have a sister, she isn't working one year and my mother isn't well since she had the operation about two years ago. So, Dear Sir, please don't forget us on Christmas Day.

Some day we may be well off and may help others. I have two brothers and four sisters, the oldest one is 16-13-10-8-7-6 and my sister is sick in bed now and my little brother from [illegible] had cold because they have no clothes to go to school. So we all are asking you and begging for a little help on Christmas Day.

This girl lives in Dorchester. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 38.

CASE NO. 40

I am a widow with six children of my own and one of my brother's, whose wife died and left him with five small ones. I get city aid, but it does not carry me through half of what my children need; as for myself, I do not care, but I am writing for my children.

They all need warm clothing and shoes. My oldest girl 14, just started high school when she had to stop under the doctor's orders and remain home. They think it is T. B. she has, and I have to get extra things for her to eat. I have a boy eight who is not well, and also a girl 12.

They have all had X-rays and I am now waiting for the reports on them so we had very little for Thanksgiving, and I have to pay for what I did have when I get my pay, so if there is any one who could give my children a helping hand for Christmas I am sure it would be greatly appreciated.

Thanking you, and I wish you all the best of luck.

This mother lives in Charlestown. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 40.

For Coughs Too Deep To Risk A Lesser Help

Creomulsion was made to deal with coughs and colds which hang on. A three-day cough is a danger signal. There the utmost should be done.

But a trifling cough may develop into something deep and difficult. Don't you think it wise to use the utmost help, even if a lesser help might do?

Creomulsion combines seven major helps in one. The seven best helps known to medical science. One is best for one type of cough, one for others. Nobody can tell in advance. So the best way seems to be to combine all in one prescription.

Creosote stands first. Here it is blended, emulsified and tasty. For soothing membranes and combating cold germs, the world knows nothing better. But some coughs best yield to white pine tar, some to wild cherry bark, some to menthol, some to ipecac, etc. So we combine all these factors at their best in a single formula.

For some coughs Creomulsion is better than you need. One of its factors might do. But don't you feel safer when a minor cough is treated in the utmost way?

If so, get Creomulsion. It costs a little more than lesser helps. But your druggist guarantees it. He returns your money if you are disappointed. You will feel safer in any cough if this master help combats it. Use it promptly.

VALUABLE OIL PAINTINGS SAVED IN CAMBRIDGE BLAZE

CARNEY'S HOME IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

Art Treasures Worth Thousands Carried to Safety by Firemen in 2-Alarm Fire

Rare paintings valued at thousands of dollars were saved when a two-alarm blaze swept the home of Francis J. Carney, Boston attorney and law professor, at 1826 Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, early today.

The house was unoccupied at the time, Carney being at Scituate. He was notified by telephone and asked that firemen save the valuable oil paintings if possible.

DEPUTY INJURED

The fire raced throughout the entire building, spreading upward from the cellar through a chimney. Deputy Albert R. Wait was injured when struck by a falling beam on the third floor.

The blaze threatened a nearby apartment house and a 1000-gallon tank in the yard.

The fire was discovered by an engineer of a passing B. & M. train. He blew his whistle several times and a passing motorman was attracted to the scene. He sounded the first alarm and the second was sounded by Deputy Wait.

Firemen were hampered in fighting the blaze by severe cold. Water froze and made their task doubly difficult. They were also held back by gas escaping from a broken connection.

Chief Wait received cuts about the skin and forehead when struck by a flying beam. He was treated at the scene by Dr. Benjamin M. Cohen.

TRAFFIC HELD UP

Fire officials said the blaze was caused by a defective heater. The estimated damage at $11,000.

Trolley cars and buses were held up for almost an hour as firemen fought the blaze.

Carney is a professor in the Boston College Law School. He was also recently appointed to the national committee on professional [illegible] and grievance of the Bar Association.

Patrolman Charles Linehan of the North Cambridge police station with one of the valuable oil paintings saved early today when fire swept the home of Law Professor Francis J. Carney, 1826 Mass. ave., Cambridge. Heavy damage to the house and its contents resulted, but a large number of paintings and antiques were salvaged by firemen. The Carney family were in their Scituate home when the blaze started. (Staff photo.)

WOMAN WINNER OF GIFT AWARD

First prize of $[illegible] in cash for the best gift suggestion letter based on a special page in the Boston Evening American of Thursday, December 3, was won by Alice M. [illegible] of 4 Maple ave., [illegible]. Her letter, which was clever and [illegible], was written entirely in rhyme. It was a long task to pick the winner after hundreds of entries were carefully looked over and checked not only for originality in the gifts but for completeness in remembering all members of the family.

Some writers made the error of assuming that a single listing of gift names, the kind of gifts, prices and where they could be bought would be sufficient. The purpose of the contest was to bring out the suitableness of each gift. It is this quality that makes remembrances appreciated at Christmas.

The Evening American would like to print the names of the many other entries who merited honorable mention, but space will not permit the listing of such a large number.

Entries on the first contest were judged by Charles E. Coyne, publicity director of R. H. White Co., [illegible] professor of advertising [illegible].

Now there is another opportunity for someone to win a cash prize to help the Christmas gift budget go farther. Turn to the page headed "Christmas Shopping Guide" and you will learn how simple and easy it is to enter the contest and perhaps win the award for a few moments thought and writing.

4 Seized With Girl Held in $15,000 Each

'I Believe in Flaming Youth!'

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I BELIEVE in Youth— [illegible] Youth—impudent ... rebel ... Youth.

Flaming Youth—I wouldn't give ...

[illegible]

That soot shocks you! Shocks me, sometimes, too. But I always ... that's burning beneath ...

You don't believe ... You think the youngsters are ...

... we lived ... in the nineties. Is that what you're saying? "Look at the interest w[e took in church] ... when we were youngsters. Our clean, simple fun. No hip flasks there—"

All right. Let's look at how we lived in the nineties. I was a youngster then too. Just such a young fellow as you're remembering. Went to four church meetings every Sunday ... Sunday School ... the morning ... Young People's Meeting ... at night ... Prayer meetings on Wednesdays ... interest? Sure I did ...

[illegible]

... life. And in Yours. But why?

... Was it ... interest ... in the church?

NO, IT WASN'T.

Let's be perfectly frank—we ... who boast ... piety. Why was the church our first interest when we were kids? It wasn't because we chose it as our first interest. It was because it was our ONLY interest—THERE WASN'T ANY MORE.

There weren't any movies ... any Sunday automobile rides ... any ... tanks ... any public dances that a decent kid could attend. There was just the church. It was not only the sole source of religion but also of amusement and SOCIAL CONTACT. Where'd we wear our best clothes? Where'd we meet our new beaux? That was where.

And now there are a hundred places besides the church where youngsters can find beauty and friendliness and healthy pleasure ... And they go to those places. As ... you and I would have done if we had had their chances. But that doesn't mean that they are worse than we were. It doesn't even mean that they are not religious. There are, of course, glaring examples of young indecency. There were young people ... in our day, too—even ...

BUT I HONESTLY BELIEVE THAT THIS PRESENT GENERATION OF YOUNGSTERS IS THE MOST DECENT THE WORLD HAS EVER SEEN AND THE MOST RELIGIOUS.

For what is the essence of religion, the true worship of God? A set of postures? A fixed program? No. A DESIRE FOR TRUTH. A HATE OF SHAM. A REBELLION AGAINST ALL THAT IS FALSE AND WEAK AND UNCLEAN.

And this desire, this hate, this rebellion burns in the heart of Youth today. It is the secret of Youth's flame. Plenty of soot in that flame ... many a ... clutch at truth ... many a false and foolish rebellion for freedom. But somewhere, deep within the ... a clear, white point of flame ... against the ancient darkness of the human soul.

BELIEVE IN THAT FLAME.

Western Union Telegraph Company is in thick of fight against broadcasting of baseball . . . sent H. M. Heffner to National League meeting with statistics showing how baseball broadcasts had reduced the number of ticker and other commercial department services . . . The Three-I, Western and the Eastern Leagues also protest baseball radio . . . Both Braves and Red Sox permit broadcasting here . . . The three New York major league clubs do not . . . Radio broadcasting makes more fans than it takes away from the games . . . Fred Hoey's baseball broadcasts have drawn thousands to Braves Field and Fenway Park, who otherwise would not be interested in professional baseball.

Pat McDonald, the giant N. Y. police lieutenant, who, after a quarter of a century in athletics is a candidate for the 1932 Olympic team, weighed 260 pounds and married a girl who just budged the beam at 119 . . . When Pat's son was six months old we inquired of Pat how the baby was . . . "George, and would you believe it," answered Pat in his rich Tipperary brogue, "but when I went home last night dommed if I didn't find him using my 56-pound weight for a rattle!" . . . McDonald hails from that little spot in Ireland where Tipperary and Limerick come together on the Shannon, from which spot the world's weight-throwing championship has been held for close to a century . . . It came down from the Davins and Reals to Mitchell, Flannagan, McGrath, McDonald and Ryan . . . Galtee Moore and Ard Patrick, the Derby winners, also were sired in the foxtail grass of old Limerick.

Maybe you can figure out Bat Battalino, the world's featherweight champion, who faces Al Singer, former world's lightweight champion, in the Xmas Fund show in New York tomorrow night . . . We can't . . . You saw him soundly spanked by Sammy Fuller here in the Boston Garden . . . He was licked by Bud Taylor and beaten by such palookas as Lew Massey, Cecil Payne and Roger Bernard . . . Old Kid Kaplan took him over the jumps . . . Yet in "big money" matches he defeated the great Kid Chocolate and Fidel LaBarba . . . It is noticed that when Battalino is favorite in the betting he loses, but when the underdog he wins . . . He has been made a favorite over Singer . . . Singer originally was matched with Kid Chocolate . . . Al has brittle hands . . . Pete Riley, manager of Battalino, showed Al the late Dr. Wilfred Fralick's method of taping the hands and Al cut loose against sparring partners without hint of pain or injury . . . Then Chocolate was pinched and Battalino substituted . . . Wonder if the Silver Fox is kicking himself on showing Battalino's foe how to properly tape his maulies? . . . Wonder how Riley is laying his money? . . . Singer apparently is shot and through and Battalino at top form should take him . . . Al now is managed by Mike Jacobs . . . If Pete Riley was bitten by a silver fox in his youth Mike Jacobs was chawed by a black one.

Mayor Curley, Holy Cross and Boston College now can feel appeased . . . The New York newspaper, from whose editorial Lowell Thomas broadcasted extracts charging the Thanksgiving Day Holy Cross B. C. game was a "racket," has apologized and acknowledged itself all wrong, Mawrnss, on its editorial page . . . Hal Cotton, the Toronto player who led with his left and crossed his right on Bill Cook's beak during the Rangers-Leaf game the other night, is a minister's son . . . He apparently forgot to turn the other cheek . . . Speaking of swinging fists, man-sized ones will fill the air in the Garden tomorrow night, when the "amachewers" start battling for glory and gold medals in the University Club Show . . . For pure and unadulterated action give us those shindies Father Bill Cuddy stages week-ends in Mechanics Building.

New York Yankees were the first to holler about the Baseball Chain Store of the St. Louis Cardinals, but now they have one of their own . . . Jake Ruppert owns Springfield of the Eastern League, Newark of the International, Scranton of the N. Y.-Penn and Cumberland of the Middle Atlantic . . . Billy Evans is sweet on Hal Rhyne of the Red Sox and wants to buy him for Cleveland . . . Only twice in two years has a hockey goal tender been penalized . . . When George Hainsworth of Les Canadiens was penalized for tripping the other night the Blackhawks scored and sewed up the game . . . Howie Morenz claims he lost 24 pounds on the ice last year, but says he'll not drop more than 10 this season . . . From the way the Flying Frenchman loafed in the last game in the Boston Garden, Howie will manage to hang on to most of his weight . . . That scar on Bill Cook's cheek was not made by shrapnel, but by a kick from a skate . . . The player that gave it to Bill was carried off the ice unconscious three times during the next period . . . Hockey players have a way of settling their own wars.

The days of the Players' Fraternity may be revived in baseball . . . Threatened with salary slashes there is a movement on foot to organize . . . May change the name of the Chicago Cubs to "The Tailors" . . . There are three of 'em on the Wrigley payroll now . . . Outfielder Danny Taylor, Catcher Zach Taylor and First Baseman Harry Taylor . . . President Hopkins of Dartmouth wrote 25 players, asking them to name the charity to which each of them would like to donate $100, each player's pro rata share of the money taken in at the Yale Bowl Round Robin . . . Charlie Paddock is training again, but it is doubtful if he is named for Olympic competition . . . Mal Stevens says Yale scouting system largely was responsible for victory over Harvard.

Still a few seats left for Saturday's Army Navy game . . . Regular seats are sold at $5 and box seats at $10 . . . Charity will get a huge sum through the big Service game . . . Close to $400,000 if weather is half way right . . . More than 10,000 Bostonians are going to New York for the big game . . . Despite depression pro football receipts this year greatly exceeded last year's . . . More than 40 players were killed on the gridiron this year . . . In a shorter season double that number of deer hunters are shot . . . No one calls deer hunting rough . . . Just over a battle with the Madison Square Garden Corporation, Frank Bruen now is in the middle of a racing shindy with Joseph E. Widener . . . Ottawa hasn't any team in the hockey league, but the touring Ottawa All Stars are cleaning up in Europe . . . They should give six months in the hoosegow as a prize in those Boston Garden bottle-throwing contests.

Football Followers Rally to Defense of Grid Sport

New York, Dec. 10.—Football men, players, coaches and fans rallied to the support of the game here today.

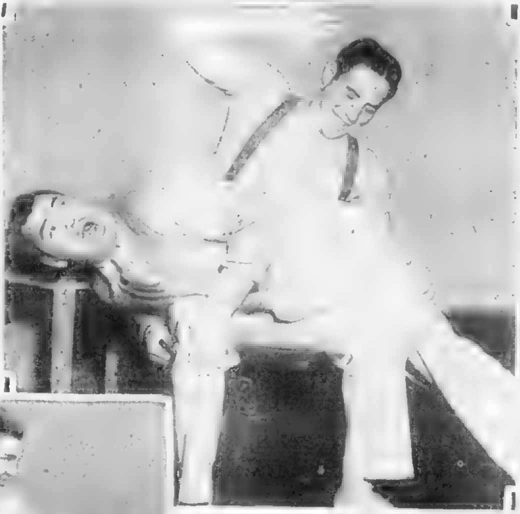
Fanned by the gale of comment [illegible] accidents to gridmen this year, the flame of opposition to football wavered before the assault of friends of the sport.

The consensus of opinion among football men here today seemed to be that most of the attack on football [illegible] whose statements did not represent [illegible] dents.

Proof of this seemed to be given when Joe LaMark and Jim Tan[illegible] drawn up a petition to the athletic board to retain Coach Meehan.

It is a notable fact that the players, the men who are most concerned with football, favor football and have no criticism to offer regarding [illegible] star was quoted as saying that football work was drudgery, has a prominent football player made unfavorable comment regarding the sport.

WILL JACK GET ANOTHER SPANKING?



That's a question for YOU to answer. Answer it better than others and you will get a pair of tickets for next Wednesday night's Schaaf-Bergomas bout in the Arena. Who is the logical challenger of Max Schmeling? In an elimination tourney among Dempsey, Sharkey, Carnera, Schaaf, Walker and Loughran, how would you match them? The Boston Evening American is giving 48 tickets to the Schaaf-Bergomas bout for the 24 better answers. Top—JACK DEMPSEY lays across Max Baer's knee and takes a spanking. Hear him holler! Left—The old Man Killer on business bent. Right—These are the tools with which JACK DEMPSEY built his huge fortune. He calls his left bread winner "Iron Mike." His right must be "Annihilating Archie," or "TNT Terrence."

Want to See Big Fight? Here Is Way to Do It

(1) Who is the logical challenger of Max Schmeling?

(2) In an elimination tourney among Sharkey, Dempsey, Carnera, Schaaf, Walker and Loughran, how would you match them?

Limit your letters to 200 words. Write on one side of the paper only. Have your answers in hands of Contest Editor, Sporting Department, Boston Evening American, before midnight on Monday, December 14.

For the most logical and best written answers the Boston Evening American will award 48 tickets for the Schaaf-Bergomas bout at the Arena on Wednesday, December 16. Twenty-four pairs of tickets will be presented. Four pairs of tickets will be given four best letters on each of the six heavyweights named. Writers of the four best stories on Sharkey, Dempsey, Carnera, Schaaf, Walker and Loughran each will receive a pair of tickets. A letter on Loughran counts just as much in the award as a letter on Sharkey.

Colgate Dean Gives Football a Boost

Binghamton, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—Colgate's dean of physical education, Dr. Ellery C. Huntington, told Colgate alumni here last night that the number of football fatalities was not alarming when one considered how many more were playing football today than years ago.

He said the game was too valuable as a character builder for the colleges to discard it, and added that it developed traits which the classroom [illegible] teach.

Derby to Be Run Before Preakness

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Kentucky Derby, most famous of America's turf classics, is to be run a week before the Preakness, the big Maryland three-year-old event.

Matthias L. Daiger, secretary of the Maryland Jockey Club, who arrived here yesterday in the interests of the Preakness and other Maryland races, said he had just heard from Kentucky that the Derby will be run on May 7 and the Preakness, May 14.

Fencing, Court Play for B. U. Girls

SOCCER DATE CONFLICT ON

The General Electric and Bird & Son soccer elevens, two of the Bay State entries in the National amateur cup series have been notified by the cup committee that they have been drawn to meet in the third round and the game must be played Sunday at Lynn.

The date conflicts with the State cup replay between the Bayrsides of Lynn and the Clan McGregors of Quincy, but as the National takes precedence over the State cup the latter game will in all probability be postponed or transferred to Quincy.

The playing of these two contests at Lynn on the same day will hurt both financially.

The St. Pius eleven also of Lynn will be engaged in a state cup game Sunday with the Boston Rangers at South Boston.

These three Lynn clubs are bringing the North Shore City back in the soccer limelight and it is safe to predict that some one of the trio will land a trophy before the season comes to a close.

MAJORS CUT PLAYER LIMIT

[illegible] owners of the American and National Leagues, meeting in joint session today, agreed to cut the player limit from 25 to 23.

This economy move will save the two leagues about $160,000 in salaries, with each club saving $10,000 through the reduction of the player limit.

The action also will cast adrift 32 players who have been warming the benches in major league parks.

The deciding vote in the issue was cast by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, presiding over the joint session. The National League at a separate meeting earlier in the week voted for a player limit of 23 while the American League club owners wanted to cut the player limit to 22.

The club owners of the two major leagues came into the meeting as units with each organization unanimous in its decision. Commissioner Landis jumped into the breach to decide the issue.

K. O. WALLOPS OF 'IRON MIKE' BEAT OUT DREAD WARNING TO MAX SCHMELING

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Dempsey is blazing a new comeback trail as he crushes third and fourth raters during his exhibition tour in the West and Northwest.

"Old Iron Mike," the nickname the Manassa Mauler has given his famous left hand, is landing like a ton of bricks on the chins of [illegible] corner, [illegible] for the sound of [illegible]

Dempsey loves the atmosphere of the boxing game. The greatest [illegible]

Dempsey has always had supreme confidence in his ability to win every time he has gone into action. When the former champion reached a point in his career where he was not sure of himself he announced [illegible]

[illegible] at the Belmont Hotel, New York [illegible] stopped Tom Heeney.

"Do you think Heeney can win?" Dempsey asked me. [illegible]

"I guess you're right," said Dempsey. "But I'm [illegible] for Heeney to win the title. The show has been flat and Tex Rickard asked me to go down to Heeney's camp and take a peek at him. Tom's a slow fellow and can't punch. [illegible]"

Spurned 15-Round Go With Gene Tunney

"In my public statements I have [illegible] splendid [illegible] trying to help Tex [illegible] hole."

"If Tunney [illegible] fight him," I asked.

"I'll never fight Tunney again," replied Dempsey. "After our Chicago bout Rickard wanted me to sign to meet Gene over the 15-round route in New York, but I didn't want the match. Tunney has a style that will always lick me.

"I got a tough break in Chicago with that long count. I would have knocked Tunney out if he had got up inside of 10 seconds. Even when he did get up, I just missed him by a sixteenth of an inch with a left hook which would have knocked him stiff if it had landed. I suppose, however, that the breaks are what makes the boxing game so interesting."

The following February I was in Tampa, Fla., with Dempsey. Jack Sharkey, who was boxing Young Stribling at Miami Beach, Fla., under the direction of Dempsey and the New York Garden, had gone to Tampa to pick up a soft $2,000 for an exhibition. Dempsey made the trip to ballyhoo the show. Babe Ruth was also at the ringside.

Dempsey and myself returned to Miami on the same train. At breakfast, I asked Dempsey if he intended to fight again.

"When I reached Florida," said Jack as he sipped away at his coffee, "it was to be Tex Rickard's partner. I sent Tex a check for [illegible] which was my share in some investments down here. We planned a dog track, an amusement pier and a classy gambling place.

"If Rickard had lived he planned to end his connections with the New York Garden. He had tired of [illegible]. We were going to promote big things together. I would have fought one more fight for Tex against the proper type of opponent."

Declared He Would Not Fight Sharkey Again

"You can get a guarantee of $300,000 for meeting Sharkey again," I ventured. "The New York Garden will put up the cash."

"If Stribling beats Sharkey I would agree to meet him," shot back Dempsey. "Stribling is a grabber, and while he was holding me I would knock him out. But I don't think he can win. Sharkey is a great heavyweight and will beat Stribling.

"I will never fight Sharkey again. He hits too hard."

"Sharkey was just lucky to nail you right," I interrupted.

"He hit me five or six times with terrific punches," said Jack. "That wasn't just luck. If I fight again my opponent will have to be a slow fellow. I also like 'em big if possible."

Last winter in New York I talked with Dempsey again about the possibility of his returning to the ring. His answer was no.

Dempsey's advisers told him he would destroy his box office appeal on exhibition and theatrical tours if he were to return to the ring and got beaten.

When Primo Carnera first came to the front, Dempsey was promoting boxing in Chicago. He seriously considered [illegible] match [illegible] proposed [illegible]

Dempsey has had his share of bad investments. He has been easy to promote. He has also had large family expenses as he has been generous to all members of [illegible]

Tiger Would Only Agree to Tackle Max

George Getz, member of the Illinois athletic commission, who was interested in the promotion of the Dempsey-Tunney bout in Chicago with Tex Rickard, is anxious that an outstanding heavyweight match be staged in the Windy City.

As the New York Garden has Schmeling under contract he could not do business with the champion.

So Getz communicated with Dempsey. He sought his services for a bout with Jack Sharkey, the latter, through Johnny Buckley, having already consented to the match.

"Will you fight Sharkey in Chicago next June?" Getz asked the Manassa Mauler.

"I have not definitely made up my mind as to whether I shall attempt a come back," replied Dempsey, "but if I do I will only agree to a bout with Schmeling. The desire to regain my old championship is all that will send me into action in the ring again in a real battle."

[illegible] any better than his legs.

[illegible] Bergomas, [illegible] the Argonne A. A. at the Arena next Thursday night.

Get your letter into the mail box as soon as possible.

Tomorrow I shall have an article on Primo Carnera, which should be helpful to fans doping the contenders.

New Haven, Ct., Dec. 10 (AP)—The Yale Daily News [illegible] appointment of Mal Stevens as head football coach [illegible] indefinite postponement of [illegible] time when a varsity coach will hold a [illegible] appointment with the faculty.

In its leading editorial, the paper praises the retention of Stevens [illegible]

"It has been indicated in official circles that the new athletic association constitution was the first step into an academicizing of the personnel of the entire staff. The News looked confidently upon the time when a varsity coach would hold a full-time appointment with the faculty, taking on direction of a particular sport as an added seasonal obligation."

Asserting that "the time is at hand when the distinction should be made between the paid 'professional' and the paid faculty coach," the News says:

"The more important questions which concern the policies to be followed in the future have not been answered, but have been customarily put off until the morrow, from all accounts, an indefinite date in the future."

The Bruins must win tonight to keep out of the cellar in the American Division as the last-place Detroiters are now but one point behind them. The natives have lost five games in nine starts to date, which is as many defeats as they suffered during the entire 44-game campaign two years back.

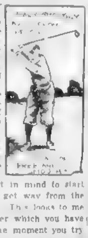
Good Golf

By CHESTER HORTON

"Golf's Greatest Teacher"



As I have noted for you before in this instruction, the danger point in your swinging action is the turn from back-swinging to forward. You turn too quickly. The common theory is that any [illegible] to hit the ball causes [illegible] haste, but I question that. I think it is due more to the accumulation of rigidity in wrists and shoulders. You know the action from the top should be smoothly away and you have it in mind to start slowly, yet you get way from the top with a jerk. This looks to me like rigidity, over which you have no control at the moment you try to use rigid muscles. Stiff rigid muscles cannot perform smoothly and spring-like. They move in jerks and jumps and heaves. That's why it appears to you that you are in too much of a hurry to get at the ball. Keep yourself in a free, flowing [illegible] method [illegible]

40 WITNESSES AID KANE IN DEATH TRIAL

Hampton, Va., Dec. 10 (INS)—Professor Elisha Kent Kane 3rd, [illegible] grimly today to the advance guard of 40 witnesses who make up his defense against the charge he murdered his wife, Jenny, at Grand View Beach last September.

One by one he watched them step into the witness stand to give details of his private life with his wife and to say that the pretty brunette, who was drowned under mysterious circumstances, suffered for years from a heart malady.

The first witness was Hazel Fenton, 14. She said that on the Saturday before the drowning Mrs. Kane had had a "spell."

"She was lying on the ground and her niece, Janie Weber, was putting hot cloths to her head," the girl declared in a half whisper.

"Had she ever had spells like this before?" asked J. Winston Read, one of the University of Tennessee professor's counsel.

"Yes."

Dr. D. A. Abernathy, physician at the University of North Carolina, specializing in heart disease, testified that Dr. and Mrs. Kane were very friendly while living in Chapel Hill, site of the university.

He had treated Mrs. Kane medically.

"I saw her have six or seven definite heart attacks," he said. "If she had had such an attack and fell into the water, I believe she would have drowned."

TRAFFIC MEN TO SELL TICKETS

For the first time traffic police will be allowed to sell tickets to the annual ball of the Police Relief Association this year.

Police Commissioner Hultman allowed the change in rules because of the contribution of $20,000 from the proceeds of the ball to the city unemployment relief fund.

In previous years it had been ruled that because traffic men would sell mainly to motorists, it might appear that they were using pressure in making sales.

It had been paining him but he did not tell his parents until today when he was taken to a doctor, who ordered him to the hospital.

Mrs. Culbertson and Jacoby Analyze Bridge Play

By OSWALD JACOBY

Member of Famous "Four Horsemen" of Bridge and Partner of Sidney Lenz in Culbertson-Lenz Match

Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.

New York, Dec. 10—As there is to be no play on Wednesdays in the match all of the contestants celebrated their night off. Mr. Lenz completely divorced his mind from bridge by being guest of honor at a special game at the Knickerbocker Whist Club. I secured the benefit of a good night's sleep.

The second session of play was very pleasant throughout and was marked by play of a very high order by all of the contestants. It was particularly pleasing to me to note Mr. Lenz's beautiful play of the cards and judgment of the bidding.

Everybody was in a particularly cheerful mood and some very amusing situations occurred. For instance, on the seventh board of the evening and 13th board of the match Mr. Culbertson held the following hand:

S—J 7
H—K 4
D—A Q J 9
C—A 8 5 3 2

He opened the bidding with one diamond, subsequently bid clubs and eventually played the hand at five diamonds, being set one trick due to losing the diamond finesse. As both the Culbertson and official systems, and practically all systems of bridge, include the bidding of the longest suit first, I was much surprised and asked, "What's going on?" Mrs. Culbertson replied by saying, "I want to ask the same question. I don't know what's going on myself." Ely then explained that he had arbitrarily decided to bid a diamond on account of the superior high card holding in the suit.

New packs are used for each hand of the match and there is a corps of shufflers who prepare them for use. The corps was functioning admirably except for inability to remove the jokers from the pack with the result that the deal was continually not coming out right. Before the end of the evening this was ironed out by the addition to the corps of an expert recognizer of jokers, who refused to let a single one escape his eagle eye.

During the course of the fifth rubber, Mr. Lenz was about to play a hand at one spade. After Mrs. Culbertson had led, Ely rose from the table, handed his cards to me and asked me to play his hand. None of the players objected, but a chorus of protests arose from the referees who felt that a bad precedent might be established if such practices were commonly resorted to. I was very glad that they did protest because it would have been particularly embarrassing to me if I should have made a mistake in playing Mr. Culbertson's hand.

In the absence of a complete, impartial analysis of all the hands I do not wish to comment on the play so far, but I do not see that any of the errors made to date can be charged to the systems. They are, rather, sins on the part of the individual players.

In this article by Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, noted bridge expert, on the bridge match being played by Mrs. Culbertson and her husband, Ely Culbertson, originators of the approach-forcing system of contract bidding, against Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, an analysis is made of the hands played to date.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

World's Greatest Woman Bridge Player. Written for the Boston Evening American.

Copyright, 1931, [illegible]

New York, Dec. 10—[illegible] vantage of the first [illegible] in the bridge battle of [illegible] in which my husband and I are engaged in a contest with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, testing the respective merits of the approach-forcing and official systems of contract bidding, to attend the theater today.

The play was interesting and I enjoyed the change of scene but I confess that many times my mind wandered to the bridge table analyzing and reanalyzing the hands. So much so that after the theater I stopped at the Cavendish for a few rubbers of bridge.

I have just completed the analysis of the cards held in the first [illegible] rubbers which by the way [illegible] 59 hands. I find that in these rubbers we held [illegible] 111 aces as against 122 held by our opponents.

Peculiarly enough, the statistics revealed that in the 59 hands thus far held each side has held 118 kings. These figures are in a measure significant of the [illegible] of the cards.

HONORS ALMOST EVEN

For instance Tuesday night we held 74 aces and [illegible] kings while Messrs. Lenz and Jacoby jointly held 70 aces and 71 kings. The difference in score on that evening was 300 points which was accounted for by the fact that our opponents bid and made a slam.

On the first evening of play Messrs. Lenz and Jacoby had a marked preponderance of the aces, holding 52 to our 40 and 47 kings to our 45. We were fortunate, indeed, to escape with a defeat of only 1715 points in view of the massing of the high honors in their hands.

Another [illegible] of the honor strength held in the hands is interesting. As most [illegible] know, the generally accepted standard of valuing a hand for an opening bid [illegible] is the Culbertson standard table of honor-tricks, which is as follows:

("X" means a low card)

HALF TRICK

Any K X
Any Q J X
Any Q X and J X in two suits

ONE AND A HALF TRICKS

Any A Q, A J 10 or K Q 10

ONE TRICK

1 Trick
Any Ace
Any K J X
Any K Q
Any K X and Q X in two suits

TWO TRICKS

Any A K

This has been called by many players, some of which do not accept all the principles of the approach-forcing system, an indispensable yard-stick for the valuation of a hand. The use of this yardstick reveals the following facts:

ANALYSIS OF RUBBERS

Rubber No. 1—Lenz-Jacoby, 41½ honor-tricks. Culbertson, 28½. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 920 points.

Rubber No. 2—Lenz-Jacoby 15. Culbertson: 10. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 690 points.

Rubber No. 3—Lenz-Jacoby 48. Culbertson 30. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 105 points. (On first hand of this rubber we took a set of 100 points to stop a grand slam.)

Rubber 4—Lenz-Jacoby 15. Culbertson 18. Rubber won by Culbertson with net score of 835 points.

Rubber 5—Lenz-Jacoby 28. Culbertson 30. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 455 points.

Rubber 6—Lenz-Jacoby 16. Culbertson 17. Rubber won by Culbertson with net score of 600 points.

Rubber 7—Lenz-Jacoby 13. Culbertson 4. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 1045 points.

Rubber 8—Lenz-Jacoby 47. Culbertson 47. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 530 points.

Rubber 9—Lenz-Jacoby 5. Culbertson 12½. Rubber won by Culbertson with net score of 1055.

Rubber 10—Lenz-Jacoby, 27. Culbertson, 23.

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Play will be resumed this evening. So great is my confidence in the superiority of the approach forcing system of bidding that I feel we will have no difficulty in overcoming the lead now held by by our opponents.

The average value of a contract rubber is 950 points. Thus far we have won three rubers, while Messrs. Lenz and Jacoby have won seven. The net difference in the score is 2075, which makes the value of the rubbers which we have won slightly less than 520 points.

I am quite convinced that when the balance of honor-tricks and aces and kings swings to our side that we can make the influence of these honors felt in the score.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

THE MESSAGE MIRRORS THE MAN HOOVER

By B. C. FORBES

Did you ever meet Herbert Hoover?

His message to Congress is a very accurate reflection of the man. He lacks sparkle. He doesn't capture the imagination—at least, not of those who come into only casual contact with him. He is a most serious gentleman—far less disposed to indulge in humor than his predecessor, Calvin Coolidge. Weighed down by a sense of his overwhelming responsibilities, he works harder and longer than any modern President, not excepting the dynamic Roosevelt. Like Coolidge, he has a deeply religious side. His "humanest" characteristic is innate, profound love of children.

The financial and business world discovered nothing in the President's message to arouse alarm. His new specific recommendations in regard to economics, if they can be termed specific are viewed by some as being along sound lines. The financial world is more anxious over speedy relief for the railroads than over any other immediate problem. Prompt, effective action by Congress is prayed for. Wall Street particularly likes the Hoover phrase:

> "The railroad bonds are in a large sense the investment of every family."

Railroad Relief Feasible

The financial world regards governmental aid for the railroads as more feasible than nation-wide succor for real estate. The need for improving the condition of real estate, of real estate mortgages, of real estate financing, is more clearly grasped than are the means.

While pessimism still rules in financial New York, the feeling gains ground that remedial developments are making progress. In time the corrective processes will triumph. But how much suffering will meanwhile have to be borne and how long it will last are matters occasioning deep concern.

It is some consolation to reflect that pessimism today is as prevalent as optimism was just before the 1929 boom ended. The majority having been so completely wrong then, it is just possible that they may be equally wrong now. It is unthinkable that New York Central shares will never again sell above 27, Union Pacific above 75, Atchison above 87, Southern Pacific above 72. Nor is it conceivable that the strongest industrial corporations in America will not again earn profits warranting very substantial improvement over the present market value of their stocks. Many bonds are selling at equally subnormal levels.

Some day courage will prove more profitable than cowardice.

Speakeasies Cripple Restaurants

Unfair competition is rampant in one vital industry, at least in New York.

The hotel and restaurant business is suffering shamefully because of the unconscionable multiplication of speakeasies, which attract customers by supplying meals at rates legitimate establishments cannot match. Violation of the prohibition law has become so flagrant and fearless that columnists and others don't hesitate to mention names of the more "fashionable" ones. The latest one to incite comment because of its inordinate popularity was recently opened with a blare of trumpets by a Frenchman whose night-place was long famous in Paris.

Law-Abiding Owners Framed

Here is a little incident which, while it will cause not the slightest astonishment in New York, may amaze the rest of the country.

Said a restaurant owner I have known intimately for years:

"This prohibition is becoming more and more of a farce. As you know, we here do our best to avoid having anything to do with serving liquor.

"I was notified by a revenue agent that a complaint had been lodged against us. When I expressed doubt that anybody could have complained against the way we were conducting our business, I was told that it would cost money to have it 'fixed.' Later a district leader came in, representing himself as a lawyer. I paid him a small sum—not nearly as much as first demanded—and I have heard no more about it since."

Specific instances of hush money being paid are related nightly in up-town New York.

Investigator Seabury has at last started to uncover this form of graft. Those in the know say that the revelations will be sensational if the money can be traced to its highest-up recipients.

A sorry mess, is it not?

I hear that the Stock Exchange has all but decided to start publishing short-selling data before many days have passed.

STATE ST.

Hears:

That the administration tax program proved too much for the price structure to withstand. It is particularly unfortunate that those industries the "Street" looked to for leadership on the upside were singled out as new sources of revenue. As a result the motor and accessory shares were freely supplied. A review of the situation however, reveals it is not at all hopeless while casting some doubt on the wisdom of the sellers.

The Situation

As matters now stand the market is apparently faced with the necessity of discounting a billion dollar tax increase by readjusting the open market valuation of industries whose products are concerned. It is characteristic of the present temper of those owning se[illegible] begin at once, even though the political alignment suggests a more palatable form of taxation. The foreign situation continues at dead center and must wait on the result of the meeting of financial experts at Basle. In the meantime however the dollar quotations on foreign currency show a fair measure of stability with the mark gradually recovering its loss of last week.

As far as railroad problems are concerned the brotherhood meeting now holds the center of the stage, as the Central dividend meeting was the last of major importance for this year.

Bank Stocks

Over-the-counter brokers who have followed the bank shares for years say that this type of security is now obtainable at the most advantageous levels in their experience. That prices could work off from this point is admitted but recessions will hardly be of major proportions, in their opinion. For this reason they advise the scale accumulation of principal equities in one of the most profitable industries in this country. At present yields are high, earnings adequate and investment holdings liquid. They further note that an investment in bank shares is an investment in money, a trade more devoid of risk than any other business.

So firmly have the principles of diversification been impressed on the brokerage mind that most suggestions to buy bank stocks are accompanied by well-chosen composite investment portfolios. One popular suggestion for a $1000 is five Chase, 10 Irving, four Manufacturers, five Manhattan and five City, yielding better than 8 per cent.

Boardroom Briefs

Fear of a tax on automobiles is said to be responsible for the selling of Bendix . . . Incidentally the threat of a motor tax is likely to further delay production plans and hold up the placing of steel orders . . . Another possible effect of the tax program is the curtailment of telegraph dividends on the theory messages will be cut down . . . Standard Brands is expected to cover its dividend no matter what the gossips say, according to one reliable informant.

Postponement instead of omission by the Central directors supplies a loophole which fixed investment trusts, owning about 150,000 shares, can use to retain holdings until next spring.

Dividends

Gray Telephone Pay Station Company at Providence declared special dividend of 25 cents, the usual extra of 50 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, all payable January 1.

* * *

Bucyrus-Monighan Co. declared extra dividend of 20 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 45 cents on the class A stock and a dividend of $1.10 on the class B stock, all payable Jan. 1.

* * *

St. Regis Paper Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on preferred, payable Jan. 2, but omitted quarterly dividend of 15 cents on common due at this time.

* * *

Southern Railway Co. today announced that at the meeting of directors action on common and preferred dividends was omitted.

* * *

Torrington Co. declared regular dividend of 75 cents a share payable January 2.

* * *

Midland Steel Products Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common payable January 1.

TODAY'S NEWS OF WALL ST. LEADERS

RAILROADS were leaders in the continuation of yesterday's downturn on the New York Stock Exchange today, accenting the fact that carrier problems remain unsolved. Union Pacific and Atchison were soon sold off around 3 points or more and new low levels reached by New Haven, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and other important carriers.

Pool Liquidation Hits Accessories

Pool liquidation was viewed today as responsible for declines in automotive accessories, which are currently operating at a good rate. Electric Auto-Lite sold down around 4 points, while Bendix was sagging more than a point.

Turnover Broadens With New Decline

Oils, coppers, motors and equipments today all felt the weight of persistent selling pressure, with new lows freely scattered through these groups. Turnover broadened appreciably on the decline, but selling dried up in the afternoon at times.

Central Dividend Action Discussed

Wall Street was quite sharply divided in its interpretation of the New York Central dividend announcement. To the majority the decision of directors to defer action on the current payment until next May, when consideration of semi-annual instead of quarterly distributions will depend on earnings, was thought to have been influenced by the road's anxiety to protect the legal status of its bonds as savings bank investments and to prevent elimination of the stock from investment trust portfolios. Declaration of a dividend five months hence if and as conditions permit would also preserve the unbroken continuity of such payments since 1870. In only one year during the last 61 years has the Central paid less than $4 a share on its capital stock.

SPECTATOR

Says:

It is idle to speculate on just where and when the market will have seen its bottom. Chart students, who only a short time ago would have staked their entire reputations on the probability that a recovery was in order, have beaten a hasty retreat and are now probably sojourning in some hiding place safely away from the wrath of their followers.

Some Favor

The situation in Wall Street at the moment, however, is not as overwhelmingly pessimistic as the downward flow of values in stocks might indicate. While it is true that the majority of commission houses are bearish, there are several large wire firms disposed to regard the market with some favor.

One house, for example, comes out with the statement that a small amount of courage and money, intelligently applied with no idea of immense profits but with a distinct idea of continuous small profits, can readily be used to profit by the present type of trading market.

Prophetic

Union leaders when they turned down the railroads' request for a voluntary wage cut at the conferences here several weeks ago, declared that "labor will not take a reduction to pay dividends." This turned out prophetic. Railroad dividends were omitted wholesale and the casualty list was one of the largest in a long time.

Revision of the anti-trust laws where natural resources are involved, as suggested in President Hoover's message, is a long-term bull point on the oils.

New Haven

The New Haven market situation is complicated now by the large amounts of stock held by fixed trusts. Provisions of many compel the sale of securities within a limited time when dividends are omitted. A parallel case is Illinois Central. The stock was selling at nearly twice current levels when the dividend was passed.

NEW LOWS SET IN BOSTON DEALINGS

Stocks were sold at new low levels in today's dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange with losses ranging from fractions to 3 points or more. Early weakness of the rails had the remainder of the list on the downward trend before the end of the first hour. Closing prices were around the lows for the day.

Issues at new lows included Atchison, New Haven, Pennsylvania, New England Telephone, selling ex dividend, American & Continental Corporation, Reece Button Hole Machinery, Warren Brothers and Pacific Mills.

Stone & Webster, United Founders, United Fruit, Anaconda, Bigelow Sanford, American & British preferred and Swift & Co. were likewise at fresh minimum prices.

Edison Electric slumped 3 points and American Telephone lowered over a point. First National Stores dropped over 3 points and Torrington was down a point.

Kreuger & Toll, Nash and Mergenthaler all touched their previous low figures. Waltham Watch preferred moved against the general trend and advanced 3 points. United Shoe was off over a point. Gillette eased a minor fraction.

Boston Stock Exchange membership of Irving E. Gunn has been posted for transfer to Carlton Hunt.

LATE RALLIES CHECK DECLINE IN WALL ST.

New York, Dec. 10—Late rallies checked the decline in trading on the New York Stock Exchange today after earlier selling had moved numerous issues to new lows.

Rail shares led a brisk final rally after a flurry of heavy selling was absorbed in the morning.

A number of prominent issues virtually cancelled their losses in the upturn, and a few closed with small gains, but many net losses of 1 to 2 points remained at the finish.

CLOSING IS STEADY

The closing tone was steady. Transfers approximately 2,700,000 shares. The rally of the final few minutes followed one that came about an hour earlier and petered out.

The market dropped about 1 to 5 points in heavy selling during the earlier hours of trading, but recovered much of the loss in the last hour rallies, as sentiment toward the rails improved. This was coincident with unconfirmed rumors that railway brotherhood delegates, meeting at Chicago, were taking a more sympathetic attitude toward the carriers' request for a temporary wage cut.

Union Pacific, which had dropped 5 points, regained all but a fraction of its loss. Atchison regained about 3 of a 4 point loss. A few shares closed with gains of about a point, including New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio and Lehigh Valley.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel lost about a point, net. American Telephone regained most of an early decline. Moderate losses predominated at the finish, however. General Motors closed off a fraction after dropping to a new low.

The selling appeared to be largely a continuation of the movement of the previous session, and brokers said there was a considerable amount of forced selling, representing liquidation of impaired collateral loans. Some, however, felt that a technical rebound might be in the making.

CONGRESS IS WATCHED

Introduction of measures in Congress calling for investigations of such matters as international banking, short selling and the railroads, invoked considerable interest in Wall Street. While Wall Street has been traditionally unfriendly to such investigations, it is understood that in the present situation several financial leaders are anxious of an opportunity to state their case.

The stock market remained under the cloud of uninspiring business news. U. S. Steel's report of a drop of 185,541 tons in unfilled tonnage for November was not wholly unexpected, in view of the lack of interest in steel buying during that period. While considerable purchasing from motor makers has been looked for, they are still proceeding with extreme caution.

Electric Bond Is Curb Mart Leader

New York, Dec. 10—Curb turned lower after starting steady today. Heavy offerings of Electric Bond & Share were made following publication of the corporation's latest earnings statement. The stock dipped more than 2 points and for a time transactions in it virtually monopolized the tape. American Superpower reacted sympathetically. Motor shares gave a reasonably steady performance.

Alles & Fisher's Business Is Good

Alles & Fisher, big Boston cigar manufacturers, state they have good reasons to believe that business has turned the corner and is on the upward trend.

They report a normal holiday business, in fact slightly better than in some recent years.

The firm declared their regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share early this week.

Stutz Salon Sales Set a New Record

New York, Dec. 10—The retail sales made by Stutz Motor Car Company of America at the New York Automobile Salon were the largest ever made by the company at this annual show, having total dollar value of $48,825, against approximately $12,000 at the 1930 salon.

Wheat and Corn in Chicago Close Up

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—There were reports that the Russian wheat crop and potato crop this season had proved virtually a total failure. Wheat closed ⅛-⅜ higher, corn ⅛-⅜ up, oats unchanged to ⅛ off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

Resistance Seen in Bond Dealings

New York, Dec. 10—Although the trend remained downward in the bond market today, spots of resistance developed. Selling in rail liens was orderly, with some disposed to resist declines. U. S. government loans were less active and mixed.

Cotton Higher in New York Market

New York, Dec. 10—Cotton futures today closed 5 to 8 points higher. Dec. 5.90, Jan. 5.95-96, March 6.15, May 6.33, July 6.50, Oct. 6.75. Spot quiet, middling 6.05.

RETAIL STORES WILL AID IN RELIEF WORK

Retail stores associated with the Retail Trade Board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce are working on a plan to obtain contributions to the unemployment relief fund.

A committee appointed by Sidney S. Conrad, president of the Retail Trade Board and of Conrad & Co., consists of T. Grafton Abbott, president of D. R. Emerson Co.; Richard Mitton, president of Jordan Marsh Co.; John Shepard, 3d, president of The Shepard Stores; F. A. Black, publicity director of Wm. Filene's Sons Co., and Felix Vorenberg, president of Gilchrist Co.

President Frederick S. Snyder of the chamber announced that the trustees of the Chamber of Commerce Realty Trust had offered to furnish, free of charge, quarters for Mayor Curley's executive committee on unemployment and relief, but relief work will be done from the regular city relief agency headquarters.

COURT RULING FOUGHT

appointments, are watching the fight with the greatest interest, it is learned the majority believe it is doomed to defeat.

At the same time they are said to be anxious to have the Supreme Court rule on the matter, in order that it may be decided once and for all.

The high court has never passed on the subject of soliciting creditors in bankruptcy cases by attorneys, it is said, although it placed a ban on such action by referees and other court officials.

As the matter stands at present, Judge Lowell affirmed the order of Referee Young and declared that solicitation would not be permitted in his court.

In making his finding he said he had conferred with his associates, which was taken to mean they were of the same mind.

According to legal authorities, future solicitation will be held unethical conduct in Federal Court, with the result that those attorneys found guilty of it may be disbarred.

Faced with such an end to their legal careers, it was learned, the Boston bankruptcy "hogs" are taking steps to safeguard themselves while still monopolizing bankruptcy business.

ACTIVITIES HAMPERED

One method which is expected to prove popular, although limited by conditions, is that referred to as having been put into effect by a certain attorney who was prepared for Judge Lowell's ruling.

The scope of this plan is limited, however, by the fact that a building with entrances on two streets is necessary.

Such a building provides two addresses, which have been taken advantage of by the lawyer in question. With only one actual office, he has had two different letterheads printed, it was learned. One bears the name of a non-existent protective association, with an address on one street. The other is a legal letterhead, ostensibly located on another street.

Using the protective association letterhead, this lawyer, it was disclosed, is carrying on a flourishing business soliciting bankruptcy creditors. As long as his real connection with the pseudo association is not proved, he is safe from a charge of unethical practice, it was pointed out.

There are various other methods of "skinning the cat" which members of the bankruptcy ring are planning to adopt, it was learned.

The majority, if not already connected with such organizations, are planning to establish dummy collection agencies, credit rating house or protective associations, the Boston Evening American was told.

These organizations, it is said, will ostensibly be set up for the protection of wholesale jobbers and manufacturers, when in reality they will be merely schemes for the benefit of the lawyers.

Through such agencies, it was disclosed, the lawyers plan to continue solicitation of creditors either by form letters or telephone.

CLAIMS STILL POOLED

Outwardly there will be no connection between the lawyers and the organizations, unless it be that of counsel. In case of an inquiry, it was learned, the attorneys will take the attitude that they have no jurisdiction over the credit house, collection agency or protective association which may be involved.

In this way, it was learned, they hope to continue to monopolize bankruptcy business, and increase their wealth through obtaining fees for the various appointments, without fear of court interference.

The Boston Evening American was informed that members of the ring expect they will still be able to pool claims, thereby dominating trusteeships and other appointments, and continue to split fees.

At the same time, it was learned, they are hoping against hope that Attorney Welsch's fight before the higher court will be successful. They feel, it was disclosed, that if the higher court rules that solicitation may be proper in certain cases, they will have a loophole through which they can work more easily than through dummy commercial organizations, and with less expense.

More revelations of the activities of the Boston bankruptcy ring will be made by the Boston Eve-

Medical

X-RAY
Examination, consultation and trial treatment absolutely free to all who call before Dec. 12th. The wonderful power of the X-ray and mercury quartz light treatment is accomplishing wonders in diseases of every description. No matter what your disease may be, remember Daniel J. Walsh, M. D., fulfills the above offer.

GALL STONES
Mrs. J. Beaupre, 11 Hammatt Rd., Roslindale, Mass., says: "For more than six years anything I ate caused so much pain that I feared to eat. The pain was in my stomach, side and back. My heart would flutter and I would be nauseated. My physician told me that an operation was necessary to relieve the pain. I did not want an operation. A friend spoke highly of Dr. Walsh and took me to his office. I am so pleased with the result of Dr. Walsh's treatment of my case that I gladly consent to the publication of my experience that others who suffer as I did may know where to go for help." Signed, (Mrs.) J. Beaupre.

Let's Have the Facts of "Hooverized" Navy!

Investigation of the whole conduct of naval policy by the Hoover administration is an imperative duty of the new Congress.

The authority and responsibility of defining the mission of the navy, determining the fundamentals of naval policy and providing and maintaining a navy strong enough to perform its mission and carry out the established naval policy of the United States and America belong to the Congress.

This authority and responsibility President Hoover has apparently undertaken TO TRANSFER FROM THE CAPITOL TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

In a statement issued from the White House on the eve of Navy day—October 27th, last—Mr. Hoover undertook to revolutionize the mission of the navy, reverse the fundamentals of naval policy and abandon the treaty standard of naval strength.

As defined by Congress, the mission of the navy is to defend all our coasts, to discharge our international obligation to defend and keep open the Panama Canal, to safeguard our outlying possessions, to support the Monroe Doctrine and the doctrine of "the open door" in the Far East, and to protect our sea-borne commerce in time of war.

As revolutionized by Mr. Hoover, the mission of the navy would be, with its reduced strength, to endeavor to assist our vanishing army in an effort to prevent invasion of the United States without the strength of either arm to make the effect effective.

The naval policy of the United States has always been to maintain a navy strong enough to perform the mission given it by Congress.

As reversed by Mr. Hoover, our established naval policy would be to maintain a navy small enough and weak enough to perform only its "Hooverized" mission.

According to the Congress, the absolute requirements of the United States demand a navy "equal to the strongest," in every class of combatant ship—a navy equal to the British navy.

THIS IS THE NAVY WE ARE AUTHORIZED BY TREATY TO BUILD. THIS IS THE NAVY THE HOOVER ADMINISTRATION WAS PLEDGED BY ITS PARTY PLATFORM TO BUILD.

According to Mr. Hoover, the navy we now have is large enough and to increase it would be "not only an economic injury to our people, but a threat against our neighbors, and would be righteous cause for ill will amongst them."

The navy we now have is inferior to the British navy and unless its decline is halted, will presently be inferior to the Japanese navy—yet the navy we now have, in Mr. Hoover's opinion, is large enough.

NO PRESIDENT EVER ISSUED A GRAVER CHALLENGE TO THE CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY AND RESPONSIBILITY OF THE CONGRESS THAN THE CHALLENGE CONTAINED IN THE RECENT NAVY DAY STATEMENT OF PRESIDENT HOOVER.

No statement ever issued from the White House was more demoralizing to the navy or more dangerous to the nation.

In justice to itself, in justice to the navy, in justice to the nation, the new Congress, as one of its first official acts, should order A COMPLETE INVESTIGATION OF THE HOOVER ADMINISTRATION'S ENTIRE CONDUCT OF NAVAL POLICY.

Congress must meet the challenge of the President standing IF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION IS TO BE MAINTAINED.

And the way to meet the challenge of the President standing is to meet it with the most thorough investigation of the navy's "HOOVERIZED" MISSION, "HOOVERIZED" POLICY AND "HOOVERIZED" STRENGTH THAT THE NEW CONGRESS CAN CONDUCT.

Pay That Dividend Now!

State's Duty in Bank Cases

As the days are steadily slipping away to Christmas, it is high time that the State authorities found a way to liquidate the funds of the innocent depositors of the closed banks.

The people of Somerville and Revere earned their money by hard work and saved it by industrious thrift.

They gave it to the custody of banks that were supposed to be under the watchful eye of the State.

The State had a prior obligation to KNOW that their funds were being handled properly, intelligently and honestly.

Now that the State itself has taken possession of the banks, the State has a prior, unavoidable responsibility to return these deposits to their owners without interminable delay occasioned by the possible incompetence of its officials or by the red-tape of senseless technicalities.

We have been given to understand by the statements of these officials that one of these banks can ultimately pay 70 percent to the depositors and we have received intimations that the other can ultimately remit dollar for dollar.

Declare dividends, at least moderate ones, NOW.

Pay the Xmas depositors. They gave their funds to the banks not to be held forever but to be paid in advance of Christmas.

The general depositors gave THEIR funds NOT TO BE HELD FOREVER but to be paid on their demand.

They are DEMANDING them now.

The State, by its policy of regulation, was a party to these agreements and should fulfill its obligation.

Depositors are tired of waiting.

They are tired of being penalized by errors and wrongs which they did not commit.

TO AN OLD HAT -:- By Edgar A. Guest

Old hat, I've fought from day to day,
'Gainst calumny defended you.
I've stubbornly befriended you,
In spite of all she's had to say
In ridicule and hate and scorn,
I've clung to you from day to day
The friendliest hat I've ever worn.

Two years ago she called you old,
Not like the hats of other men.
I merely shrugged my shoulders then
And even smiled to hear her scold.
Alone I've stood to speak your praise,
But now I do as I am told
And here's the parting of the ways.

I've paid no heed to slander's tongue.
Like water off a gosling's back
Has flowed the flood of her attack.
To you tenaciously I've clung
Because, old hat, you suited me,
But now like you I'm not as young
And sprightly as I used to be.

I've gone as far as I can go.
Now for the sake of peace I quit
And to her orders I submit.
She thinks that hats are made for show.
Her choice is always for the new.
She hates the sight of you, and so
Regretfully I part from you.

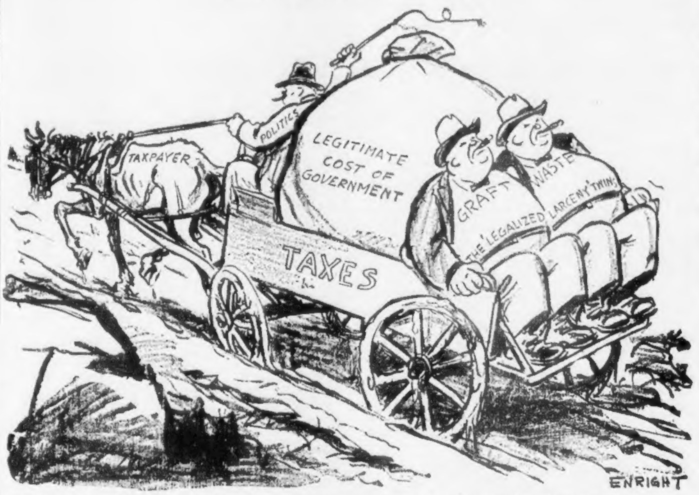
The Ride Stealers



Federal, State and local governments in this country costs $105 per inhabitant and $440 per family, according to statistics compiled by the last Federal census.

This cost is exorbitant, and it is time to find a means of lightening this tax burden.

Even a cursory glance at the picture-editorial of Walter J. Enright above will show what is the matter—those two burly figures, GRAFT and WASTE, in the rear of the wagon, should be kicked off.

Under the leadership of President Coolidge, Federal expenses were reduced by the adoption of an effective budget system and a uniform system of taxation. As Governor of Massachusetts he reorganized and consolidated more than one hundred departments, commissions and boards into less than twenty that gave better administration at less cost.

Every State, county and municipality today needs a Calvin Coolidge to end this "legalized larceny," to cast out wasteful, inefficient, costly government.

Bears in Wall Street, bears in the woods, bears in national politics, grizzly bears, brown bears, black bears, every kind of bears.

How long must this bearish condition continue? We are tempted to become classical and exclaim, Quousque tandem, Uncle Sam, abutere patientia nostra.

Early Americans, first nephews of Uncle Sam, would not stand this kind of nonsense. They would make this big bear and the two little dinky bears look like nice fur rugs in a short time.

But what can you expect from those degenerate creatures, heavy elephant and light-headed donkey? Their minds are on money, on jobs, on anything but duty.

Truly it was said, Malheur ne vient jamais seul.

New York Day by Day -:- By O. O. McIntyre

Parade of Beggars

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—Broadway, from Herald Square to the Circle, has a nightly parade of beggars as varied as those fringing the Appian Way. In the opulence of boom days, mendicants almost vanished save those tottering, benumbed creatures who spend every penny for the lethal concoction called "Bowery smoke."

But now they are back—the throwers of fake fits, dummy chuckers, crust divers, Crying Marys and such. At every stop of motor traffic they swarm out, like flies to sugar. The police are showing laxity because they know that among the undeserving are many deserving.

Deserving such as the two legless men, propelling themselves on portable platforms and escorted by faithful dogs, a Boston and a wire haired terrier. Around the corner from Roxy's is the fellow whose bared artificial limb bristles with a porcupine display of pencils. In 57th street the armless harmonicist.

Trudging through theater throngs are a blind saxophonist and guitarist, led by a white-haired sightless woman. They render cowboy tunes and croon the laments of the pampas. Here and there little bands composed of musicians once of the Broadway orchestras.

Even the organ grinder and his moth-eaten monkey are back. Also the shivering acrobats in patched tights who tumble on a frayed strip of carpet in apartment courts. Too, are many who have obviously never before resorted to this humiliating expediency.

For instance, the neatly dressed fellow who stand at the curb during theater intermissions and sings in a voice adequately cultured for morning musicals. Also the clever magician, once on the big time, who executes vanishments from restaurant to restaurant.

The most prolific source of revenue for panhandlers is the entrance of the private residence speakeasy in early hours when stay outs debouch for taxis. At such a time there is a mellow, generous mood. Slimmest pickings are around the Metropolitan marquee after the opera.

* * *

On Fourteenth street an old beggar, with a pudgy body and Falstaffian face, sits on a camp stool at a subway kiosk holding out packets of gum. If you stop to chat he will usually turn to poetry. Mournfully he declares there are no real poets today save Edwin Arlington Robinson. The rest, he says, write only for adulation and not to express a stirring emotion. Keats is his idol. "He had only one rule for good verse," he avers, "and he expresses it with: "If a sparrow comes before my window, I take part in its existence and pick about the gravel."

* * *

The Waldorf's new Peacock Alley, like an enormous marbled scarp, is more spacious than the old but not so clogged to me with human interest. It is more the genteel treadmill for refined looking people, conscious of their sureness in the world and expressing an afflorescence to blend therewith. In the old alley one saw along with visiting European royalty, famous confidence men, ladies who dropped handkerchiefs in paths of visiting Elks, Diamond Jim ablaze with emerald fire, Lily Langtry, Steve C'Grady, professional Southerners and Tod Sloan. It was jumbled, polyglot and oddly confused but more enticing than the superficial rhythm of post-war aristocrats.

* * *

But apple-cheeked Oscar hurries about with customary energy. Oscar can be in more places in a given time than Jules Glaenzer. He is the rubicund rivet clinching the suffocating grandeur of the new with the mellowness of the old.

* * *

And Gus Edwards, too, circulates around the Rialto, a rare old timer, who continues to bring theatrical discoveries out of obscurity as magically as the rabbit from a hat. If Gus could command one per cent life royalty from stars he shunted to success he could retire to a castle on the Hudson. He is rich, however, in firm friendships but I often wonder just what his thoughts are about gratefulness.

I'm off for the Uganda at midnight on an elephant hunt, but meet me at 2 o'clock this summer and I'll handle you, you mug.

Reporting Progress; Politics, Human Misery

By Claude G. Bowers

NOW THAT THE Administration is so bent on the "suspension of partisanship," we ought to have a definition of just what that means. The orderly operation of our form of government depends on the party system; the theory is that opposing policies and principles are submitted to the people through parties at the polls; and that the policies and principles sanctioned by the people shall be put in operation.

We hear much of the viciousness of bi-partisanship in politics. It usually means that leaders get together and agree to disregard everything but their personal convenience and advantage. That leaves the purposes of the people in elections out.

There is another interpretation of the meaning of the present proposal for the suspension of partisanship. There are pressing problems that go to the economic welfare of the people and, just now, to the relief of millions who are dependent on the bread of charity, that need have no partisan slant at all.

Perhaps it would be well to put this to the test early when Senator Wagner reintroduces the employment bill which Congress passed last year and the President killed by a pocket veto.

* * *

Mr. Rainey Makes a Proposition

And what is meant by undesirable "obstruction"? There have been policies of the President during the last three years that have contributed to the present depression; these were opposed by the Democrats at the time; the people have since voted to sustain the opposition of the Democrats and have put them in power in the House.

Would it be "obstruction" for the Democrats to oppose such policies during the present session?

And let the Administration supporters answer this one:

The present tariff act, which most business men and almost all economists agree is destructive of foreign trade, on which our prosperity depends, was forced through by the President over the opposition of the Democrats. That which these Democrats warned would come to pass has come to pass. As a result we are now confronted by the Chinese tariff walls of other nations, and the whole world suffers. Now Mr. Rainey, Democratic leader in the House, makes this proposition:

"Our tariff must be substantially lower. Lower rates can only be put into effect with safety to our industries by resorting to reciprocal duties. We should pass a bill with the support of both parties, lowering tariff rates with a reciprocity clause providing that none of the rates can be called into effect until, as to some item or group of items, some foreign nation shall establish the rate or lower tariff rates."

Here is an appeal to the President and his party for the "suspension of partisanship." It is an appeal that business men will support. Is the President ready to suspend partisanship?

* * *

No Other Road to Victory

We shall soon know precisely what this plea for non-partisanship means. Of course the Democrats, having a mandate from the people, will act on their own judgment, in conformity with the principles and policies on which they received their mandate, but will refrain from partisan opposition in the mere spirit of obstruction. Never before, not even in 1911, have they entered upon their duties more harmoniously. This is because they have buried minor differences in the will of the majority. There is no other road to victory.

That is the reason we have a recurrence of the demand for the abrogation of the two-thirds rule in the national conventions. Periodically the demand comes, but unhappily only on the verge of a convention when the interests of candidates are involved. Yet there have been but three times in a hundred years when the candidate receiving a majority on any ballot was not conceded the nomination. In each instance the defeat of the man having a majority on any ballot through the two-thirds rule left bitterness, and in one instance snatched defeat from certain victory.

There never was a reason for the rule that could be reconciled with Jeffersonian principles. A convention adopted it to satisfy a momentary purpose; a convention can abrogate it; and we hope to live to see it wiped out. We are thinking of no candidate or candidates, persuaded that whoever gets the majority in the next convention will be the nominee.

Even though a nomination be made upon the first ballot, the convention should at least abrogate the rule for future conventions, because it is undemocratic and is a constant source of irritation and a breeder of dissensions.

* * *

Unemployment Is Grave Problem

There is no graver problem before the Congress than that of unemployment and the prevention of suffering among women and children. The National Government cannot ignore this human problem.

It is not every city that can respond to this emergency; or every county and community; and where it is impossible it is the manifest duty of the National Government to treat a national problem in a national way. There is nothing of partisanship in that, and that is something for Congress to consider.

* * *

Problems of Humanity

After all, something more is involved than the prevention of starvation. Women and children die from exposure, too; and in the midst of the self-satisfaction over the collection of charity funds hundreds of thousands of women and children are being evicted from their homes, set upon the street. We have often wondered what becomes of these. Are they to be fed out in the wintry storms?

The condition of millions is beyond the reach of private charity; there is work for the Federal Government as well.

Dean Donham of the Harvard School of Business Administration calls upon the government at Washington to do its part, to make its contribution. Money? He answers:

"In the greatest crisis we have had since the Civil War I am not worrying about borrowing a billion or two when you consider we have paid off ten to twelve billions of our national debt in ten years."

Whatever is needed, in addition to what private charity has contributed and local communities and governmental units can afford, must come from the National Treasury; it is a National problem; and this human misery about us is due, not to the misdeeds of local governmental units but to the stupidities of National policies. And the National Government cannot stand aside and ignore its human responsibilities.

Yes, the serious problems confronting Congress are not partisan; they are the problems of humanity; and in the midst of human misery most of us are weary of platitudinous chatter from high places about "the American way."
